The Formation Of The Resurrection Narratives:

The Formation of the Resurrection Narratives Reginald Horace Fuller, 1971 The palpable inconsistencies both major and minor in the Gospel accounts of the Easter events have become for many an obstacle to belief in the resurrection In order to discover the reasons for these discrepancies and the meaning of the narratives for contemporary faith the author begins with the earliest record of the Easter tradition in 1Cor 15 and then applies the tools of tradition and redaction criticism to the Easter narratives of the four Gospels He reconstructs the history of the tradition from its earliest recoverable form in allegedly factual reports through its successive developments in the preliterate and literary stages In this process the author exposes the motivations behind the developments and shaping of the narratives into their final form In Defense of Miracles R. Douglas Geivett, Gary R. Habermas, 2025-10-16 Rumors of deception have surrounded claims of Jesus resurrection ever since the soldiers appointed to guard his tomb made their report to the Jewish authorities But no one has led the philosophic charge against miracles quite as influentially as David Hume with his 1748 essay Of Miracles Refined revised restated his arguments still affect philosophic discussions of miracles today During the twentieth century strong arguments have been raised by Antony Flew professor emeritus at Keele University in England Flew has contributed a fresh statement of his objections to the idea of God's acting in history just for this volume which also includes Hume's classic critique as a part of the case against miracles In response Douglas Geivett and Gary Habermas have assembled a distinguished team of scholars to rebut the objections and set forth the positive case for God's action in history Richard Purtill clarifies the word miracle while Norman Geisler critiques Hume's case against miracles Francis Beckwith and Winfried Corduan assess how we would recognize miracles in the past and in the present Ronald Nash examines naturalism's exclusion of miracles and shows its self-referential incoherence J P Moreland discusses whether science properly rules out the possibility of miracles God's existence and action in history are probed by David Beck and Stephen Davis while Douglas Geivett argues that within a theistic framework it is reasonable to expect miracles as confirmation of claims to special revelation David Clark examines miracles within the context of various world religions Robert Newman John Feinberg William Lane Craig and Gary Habermas conclude by investigating fulfilled prophecy the virgin birth and incarnation of Jesus the empty tomb and the resurrection appearances In Defense of Miracles is a comprehensive up to date discussion that should not be overlooked by anyone concerned with the current debate over miracles Johannine Writings and Apocalyptic Stanley E. Porter, Andrew K. Gabriel, 2013-09-15 Johannine Writings and Apocalyptic provides a wide ranging and thorough annotated bibliography for John's Gospel the Johannine letters Revelation and apocalyptic writings pertinent to these books More inclusive than many other bibliographies this volume provides reference to over 1300 individual entries often including references to multiple works with a given description Annotations are designed to provide guidance to a wide range of readers from students wishing to gain entry to the subject to graduate students engaging in research to professors needing

Missionary Stories and the Formation of the Syriac Churches Jeanne-Nicole Mellon Saint-Laurent, 2015-06-19 Missionary Stories and the Formation of the Syriac Churches analyzes the hagiographic traditions of seven missionary saints in the Syriac heritage during late antiquity Thomas Addai Mari John of Ephesus Simeon of Beth Arsham Jacob Baradaeus and Ahudememeh Jeanne Nicole Mellon Saint Laurent studies a body of legends about the missionaries voyages in the Syrian Orient to illustrate their shared symbols and motifs Revealing how these texts encapsulated the concerns of the communities that produced them she draws attention to the role of hagiography as a malleable genre that was well suited for the idealized presentation of the beginnings of Christian communities Hagiographers through their reworking of missionary themes asserted autonomy orthodoxy and apostolicity for their individual civic and monastic communities positioning themselves in relationship to the rulers of their empires and to competing forms of Christianity Saint Laurent argues that missionary hagiography is an important and neglected source for understanding the development of the East and West Syriac ecclesiastical bodies the Syrian Orthodox Church and the Church of the East Given that many of these Syriac speaking churches remain today in the Middle East and India with diaspora communities in Europe and North America this work opens the door for further study of the role of saints and stories as symbolic links between ancient and modern traditions

Gospel Women Richard Bauckham, 2002-05-15 There have been many studies of the women in the Gospels but this is a new kind of book on the subject Rather than offering a general overview of the Gospel women or focusing on a single theme Richard Bauckham studies in great depth both the individual women who appear in the Gospels and the specific passages in which they appear This unique approach reveals that there is much more to be known about such women than previous studies have assumed Employing historical and literary readings of the biblical texts Bauckham successfully captures the particularity of each woman he studies An opening look at the Old Testament book of Ruth introduces the possibilities of reading Scripture from a woman s perspective Other studies examine the women found in Matthew s genealogies the prophet Anna Mary of Clopas Joanna Salome and the women featured in the Gospel resurrection narrative A number of these women have never been the subject of deep theological enquiry Unlike most recent books Bauckham s work is not dominated by a feminist agenda It does not presume in advance that the Gospel texts support patriarchal oppression but it does venture some of the new and surprising possibilities that arise when the texts are read from the perspective of their female characters Astute sensitive to issues of gender and written by one of today s leading theologians Gospel Women will be of interest to a wide range of readers
