Mary R. Rapshaw

The Foster Carer's Handbook For Carers Of Children Under 11 Years Of Age:

The Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal, Meral Mehmet, 2006 Quite often it is the small things that a carer does or doesn't do that have the greatest impact on a child. This is a guide to have on hand to dip into and refer to whenever questions about both big and seemingly small things arise. It not only helps carers to answer the never-ending questions of whether each of the many decisions that they must make are good enough for my child. It also helps carers to involve the child in those decisions and indeed to make those decisions themselves whenever possible and supports carers by letting them know at all such times what standards others will expect of them. Most sections of the text have photocopiable games, checklists, forms, and pictures.

The Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal, 1995 The Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal, Meral Mehmet, 2012 Acclaimed across three previous editions, this handbook covers British practice aspects of foster care for care providers of children up to 11 years old, including children with special needs. Primarily for foster carers but also useful in residential care, the book is packed with detailed guidance about looking after children, being looked after, being a foster carer, and living in a fostering household. It is designed to encourage carer providers to work in partnership with the children and their families, enable children to return to their families when appropriate, enable carer providers to meet the full range of a child's needs, explain the fostering roles and responsibilities. Although there are differences in detail, the governments of England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland all make similar requirements of carers. The Foster Carer's Handbook will help all carer providers achieve the expectations placed on them and assist them to maintain standards. This fourth edition underlines and encourages the use of relevant government standards and gives examples of good practice. A comprehensive guide that can be called on when just about anything arises, the book has been developed for carer providers to read themselves, along with the children they are caring for, as well as their own children, to help carers make appropriate decisions and answer the many questions children may ask about their time being looked after. For use as a talking tool, including activities to help children understand the present, face the future with confidence, and in time make their own decisions about their life for use in supervision and training.

Foster Parent Handbook Mary R. Rapshaw, 2002-04-11

BECOME A FOSTER PARENT A mom, dad, house, and dog do not make a home. Everyday there are children who experience this sad fact when they are removed from their home due to neglect or abuse. Not every foster child has a foster family. In some regions, foster children must wait for long periods of time in shelter care. More than one half million children in the United States rely on foster families to provide a safe and loving home. Many wonderful and caring families would like to open their homes to these children but are clueless about how to get started. There are many misconceptions, myths, and misunderstandings surrounding foster care. These concerns must be shattered, and waiting children must be nurtured. This book details for prospective foster parents the requirements, qualifications, and screening process. Step by step, foster parents are guided through the crucial decisions and directed to the vital information they will need to foster parent effectively.

Foster Parent Handbook provides an indispensable guide for navigating through the foster care system. It is designed for use by prospective foster parents, those who are currently foster parents, and professionals providing foster care services.

Teenagers in Foster Care John Christopher Coleman, 2016 The Foster Carer's Handbook on Education SARAH. FURLAND ALIX (EILEEN. HILL, NICOLA.), Eileen Fursland, Nicola Hill, 2020-01-30. Some children in foster care struggle to get on with school; their ability to cope with its demands is affected by the impact of experiences of neglect, trauma, and loss. They need understanding and extra support. Foster carers are most likely to know whether a child is settling into a new primary school or if they are coping with the transition to secondary education. School staff need foster carers' guidance about how best to help children feel safe and understood in the classroom. This handbook aims to support foster carers in that task and so help children to have the best possible experience of education right up to leaving care. The Teenager's Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal, Meral Mehmet, 2012. Acclaimed across three previous editions, this handbook based on research in the UK can help anyone looking after young people aged 12 years and over, including those with special needs, to provide care that equals or surpasses what is required. Although developed for foster care providers who are working with young people, the book will also be useful for residential carers and for anyone helping prepare young people for adult life. It is packed with detailed guidance about looking after young people, being a foster care provider, and living in a fostering household or care home. It aims to explain how carers can work with and care for the young people in their care, enable young people to return to their families when appropriate, enable carers to meet the full range of a young person's needs, explain the caring roles and responsibilities. Although there are differences in detail, the governments of England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland all make similar requirements of carers. The book shows carer providers how to achieve the expectations placed on them and maintain standards. It underlines and encourages the use of relevant government standards and gives examples of good practice. As a comprehensive guide that can be called on when just about anything arises, it has been developed to help carers make appropriate decisions, and it answers the many questions young people may ask about their time being looked after. For use as a talking tool, it includes photocopiable support activities to help young people understand the present, face the future with confidence, and in time become independent adults and move on. The previous editions of this book were published under different titles: Answers for Carers (1994, 1999) and Young People in Foster and Residential Care (2003). Advocating for Children in Foster and Kinship Care Mitchell Rosenwald, Beth N. Riley, 2010. This book is the first to provide strategies for effective advocacy and placement within the foster care and kinship care systems. It also takes a rare look at the dynamics of the foster and kinship relationship, not just among children and the agency workers and service providers who intervene on their behalf, but also between children and those who take in and care for them as permanency develops. Drawing on their experience interacting with and writing about the institution of foster care, Mitchell Rosenwald and Beth N. Riley have composed a unique text that helps practitioners, foster parents, and relative caregivers realize successful transitions for youth especially considering the traumas these children may suffer both before and after placement. Advocating for a child's best interests must begin early and remain consistent throughout assignment and adjustment. For practitioners, Rosenwald and Riley emphasize the best techniques for assessing a family's capabilities and for guiding families through the challenges of foster care. Part one details the steps potential foster parents and kinship caregivers must take with the assistance of practitioners to prepare themselves for placement. Part two describes tactics for successful advocacy within the court system, social service agencies, schools, and the medical and mental health establishments. Part three describes how to lobby for change at the agency and legislative levels as well as within a given community. The authors illustrate recommendations through real-life scenarios and devote an entire chapter to brokering positive partnerships among practitioners, families, and other teams working to protect and transition children.

We Care for Kids. Illinois. Department of Children and Family Services, 1979.

The Foster Carer's Handbook On Health. Hannah Smith, Nikki Shepherd, 2020-11-04. Health care is important for all children and young people and for their parents or carers. But children frequently enter the care system with a worse level of health than others in part due to the impact of early abuse or neglect. Foster carers have a vital role to play in supporting the health of the children in their care. But how best can they do this? This handbook will support foster carers to navigate through the health service to ensure that children's needs are met and to be a role model for their health choices.
