Human Rights and the Future of Mankind Nagendra Singh, 1982 The Future of Post-Human Migration Peter Baofu, 2013-01-03 Is migration really so constructive that as Ralph Emerson 1909 once wrote in the context of the New World asylum of all nations will construct a new race a new religion a new state a new smelting pot WK 2012 This noble lie the melting pot in the 20th century can be contrasted with an opposing noble lie of the salad bowl in the 21st century when those in multiculturalism like Tariq Modood 2007 argue nowadays that multiculturalism is most timely and necessary and we need more not less WK 2012a Contrary to these opposing noble lies and other views as will be discussed in the book migration in relation to both the Same and the Others is neither possible or impossible nor desirable or undesirable to the extent that the respective ideologues on different sides would like us to believe Surely this exposure of the opposing noble lies about migration does not mean that the specific field of study on migration is a waste of time or that those interdisciplinary fields related to the study of migration like animal migration gene migration diaspora politics cultural assimilation human trafficking urbanization brain drain tourism ethnic cleansing environmental migration globalization religious persecution national identity gentrification fifth column migration art xenophobia space colonization multiculturalism and so on are worthless Needless to say neither of these extreme views is reasonable Instead this book offers an alternative better way to understand the future of migration especially in the dialectic context of the Same and the Others while learning from different approaches in the literature but without favoring any one of them or integrating them since they are not necessarily compatible with each other More specifically this book offers a new theory that is the theory of the cyclical progression of migration to go beyond the existing approaches in a novel way If successful this seminal project is to fundamentally change the way that we think about migration in relation to Sameness Otherness and identity from the combined perspectives of the
