The Free School:

Free Schools Thomas Edward Finegan, 1971 Making it Up as We Go Along Chris Mercogliano, 1998 Founded in 1969 in an inner city neighborhood the Albany Free School is based on real freedom community democratic principles and affection and trust between teachers and students This book provides an in depth history of the Free School including a brief analysis of its place in the broader scheme of things describes the school with reference to the various alternatives to conventional schooling and addresses certain fundamental subjects often neglected in our national thinking about children Various anecdotes describe ways of working with children as unique individuals based on faith in every child s inborn desire to learn The anecdotes are organized into chapters that demonstrate school philosophy about handling disruptive or aggressive children the apprenticeship model of learning children s emotional and interpersonal issues fear concentration television s effect on children religion and spirituality race and class sexuality teaching and community The concept of community is central to the school s philosophy Children profit immensely from exposure to the practice of community at the Free School because it establishes an interior template that helps them find personal meaning based on their ability to connect with others TD Department for Education Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2013-04-23 Academies are funded directly by central government directly accountable to the Department for Education and outside local authority control They have greater financial freedoms than maintained schools By September 2012 the number of open academies had increased tenfold from 203 to 2 309 Academies are the Department s chosen vehicle for school reform but increasing schools autonomy and removing them from local authority control gives the Department responsibility for ensuring value for money The Department has incurred significant costs from the complex and inefficient system it has used for funding the Academies Programme and its oversight of academies has had to play catch up with the rapid growth in academy numbers In the two years from April 2010 to March 2012 the Department spent 8 3 billion on Academies 1 billion of this was an additional cost to the Department not originally budgeted for this purpose some of which was not recovered from local authorities The Department must improve the efficiency of its funding mechanisms and stop the growth in other costs Furthermore the Department has yet to establish effective school level financial accountability for academies operating within chains What will determine whether the Department ultimately achieves value for money is academies impact on educational performance relative to the investment from the taxpayer If the Department is to be held properly to account for its spending on academies it must insist that every Academy Trust provides it with data showing school level expenditure including per pupil costs and with a level of detail comparable to that available for maintained schools Education and Schooling John MacBeath, 2013-09-19 The French have a saying plus ça change plus c'est la même chose The English colloquial equivalent same old same old conveys a sense of the inevitable a reminder that if we haven't learned the lessons of history we are doomed to repeat them In over half a century what have we learned about education about schools as places for education a Education, Equity, Economy: Crafting a New Intersection George W. Noblit, William T. Pink, 2015-11-17 This volume will introduce the readers to an alternative nexus of education equity and economy pointing to economies and educations that promote a less stratified and exploitive world and as the chapter authors demonstrate this view has a wide range of applications from technology mathematics to environmental catastrophes and indigenous cultures This first volume in the new book series not only introduces the series itself but also several authors whose chapters that appear here presage the in depth analysis that will be offered by their volumes in the series Education is invoked repeatedly in the class warfare that pits the population against the elites as the investment that makes the difference in terms of both policy and individual commitment in the economy The economy in this scenario is competitive accumulative exploitive and stratifying implying education should mirror this and prepare people to fit this economy However education has other historic goals of developing common cultures national identities and civic engagement that belie this form of economic determinism This volume and the series will explore this new nexus of economy and education with equity

Transactions of the Albany Institute ,1830 Reports of the United States Commissioners to the Paris Universal Exposition 1867 1878 U.S. Commission to the Paris exposition,U. S. Commission to the Paris Exposition, 1867,1880 The Common School Awakening David Komline,2020-08-24 A statue of Horace Mann erected in front of the Boston State House in 1863 declares him the Father of the American Public School System For over a century and a half most narratives about early American education have taken this epithet as the truth As Mann looms over the Boston Common so he has also loomed over discussions of early American schooling Other scholarship has emphasized economic factors as the main reason for the emergence of public schools The Common School Awakening offers a new narrative about the rise of public schools in America that counters these conceptions In this book David Komline explains how a broad and distinctly American religious consensus emerged in the first half of the nineteenth century allowing people from across the religious spectrum to cooperate in systematizing and professionalizing America s schools in an effort to Christianize the country At the height of this movement several states introduced state sponsored teacher training colleges and concentrated government oversight of schools in offices such as the one held by Mann Shortly thereafter the religious consensus that had served as the foundation for this common school system disintegrated But the system itself remained the legacy of not just one man but of a whole network of reformers who put into motion a transatlantic and transdenominational religious movement the Common School Awakening Annual Report of the Minister of Education, on the Public, Separate, and High Schools, Also on the Normal and Model Schools, of the Province of Ontario, for the Year ... Ontario.
