Deyoung Alan, 2017-12-22 Published in 1995 this book provides an account of a detailed research project focusing on a rural school in West Virginia Researched from several social science perspectives the book strives to capture intersections between biography and history in a particular public school Burnsville High and Middle school in Braxton County that has been influenced by social political and economic forces eventually leading to its closure The author also discusses how the example of this school can be applied within the framework of American public education and Western culture itself Based on research from unstructured interviews oral histories historical records and intermittent fieldwork that took place between 1989 and 1992 the book provides an in depth look at a specific school offering a basis for discussing rural schools in general It challenges the idea that bigger schools are better and more efficient schools in terms of the individual the social life of the school and the surrounding community and considers the lack of scholarly accounts available on the issues controversies and social dynamics that surround these vital community matters Land Use and Living Space Robin H. Best, 2024-09-02

Few people have any coherent idea of whether the shifts taking place in land use structure are critically important for us all or whether they are largely immaterial This book originally published in 1981 by setting down a more quantified and carefully researched statement and appraisal of land use structure and change than had previously been attempted shows that much of the conventional wisdom about land use can be shown to be incorrect or very suspect Land use planning has often been built on the insecure foundation of myth rather than reality the author maintains Land Use and Living Space shows that much of the perceived land problem in Britain is not substantiated by evidence on the ground and concludes that there is no real problem at all This analysis was a welcome contribution to the debate during the 1970 and 80s about the true state of land use in Britain Europe and the USA
