Teaching Literacy Fred Sedgwick,2002-02-01 The teaching of literacy is a high priority for teachers and for governments yet some of the approaches commonly used are very limiting joyless and ultimately ineffective In contrast Fred Sedgwick shows how literacy can be combined with and promoted through a love of reading and children s ability to think and write creatively Using a wide variety of rich resources the author shows how to put creative approaches into practice and illustrates through children's work just how rewarding those results can be      Active Reading Ben Knights, Chris Thurgar-Dawson, 2008-06-01 The subject of this book is the crossover between critical study and creative writing Active reading is a structured process of writing activities using imitation variation and experimentation Through practical composition techniques such as transformational writing re writing or translation students can use writing activities to develop their critical imagination This book bridges the gap between theories of learning and Literary studies in Higher Education Setting the argument in an historical and theoretical context it outlines the importance of writing as a medium of learning and argues for its usefulness in aiding English students understanding of theoretical as well as literary and cultural texts The authors provide a reflective account of teaching and assessment methods using writing activities and critical thinking techniques and the forms of learning they promote In the last section they explore the connections with other forms of writing practice in related disciplines and argue for the role of transformational writing in promoting independent learning Appendices provide examples of the range of activities that can be used and an indicative list of literary examples      How to Write Poetry Fred Sedgwick, 2005-06-01 Plenty of people want to write poetry yet while it is not necessarily difficult to write poetry badly it is harder to write it well In this guide Fred Sedgwick explains with numerous examples from successful poets how the creative process works from the initial impulse to write all the way through to the crafted and expressive poetry at the end      British Book News ,1991
