Despite the growing significance of social movements worldwide, scholarship on the subject remains largely Western in nature, with studies written primarily by Western scholars and based on the experiences of Western cultures and societies. This book makes an important contribution to the study of social movements in non-Western societies by examining their development in Iran. With a particular focus on the recent environmental movement, the author sheds new light on the implications and significance of these movements. Drawing on in-depth original research, the case study of the environmental movement is integrated into a historical and comparative analysis. Implementing the new social movement theory of Touraine and Melucci.

in the Iranian context the author shows that although the reform movement of Iran is unique in some aspects it is a continuation of the past social movements She places emphasis on the role of women in recent Iranian social movements exploring the significance of social movements in civil society and in instigating social change Using the case of Iran to offer a critical framework for studying social change and transformation of non European countries this book fills an important gap in the existing literature on the topic As such it will be of great interest to scholars and students of sociology political science and Middle Eastern studies
