The Flying Scots A Century Of Aviation In Scotland:

The Flying Scots Jack Webster, 1994-01-01 From Percy Pilcher's first glides near Cardross in 1895 to the Jetstream 41 built in Prestwick in the 1990s significant events people and aircraft in the history of Scottish aviation are presented in this volume

Scottish Aerodromes of the 1920s and 1930s Malcolm Fife, 2020-10-04 The end of the First World War brought with it the closure most of the military aerodromes in Scotland It however retained its links with naval aviation with aircraft carriers frequently exercising off the coast In the latter part of the decade Auxiliary Air Force squadrons were formed at Edinburgh and Glasgow manned by civilians With the rise of the Nazis in Germany the RAF responded by building new airfields or re opening former First World War sites They included armament practice camps at Evanton and West Freugh where pilots could practice their skills in bombing and firing their weapons RAF flying boats also visited various coastal locations around Scotland in the years leading up to the War The inter war services also saw the development of scheduled airline services within the country They were however not between major towns but linked remote islands with major towns of the mainland An air ambulance service was also created to serve isolated communities All of these developments are covered as well as private flying and gliding There is also a section on aerodromes that were planned but never built

The New Coastal History David Worthington, 2017-10-17 This book provides a pathway for the New Coastal History Our littorals are all too often the setting for climate change and the political refugee and migration crises that blight our age Yet historians have continued in large part to ignore the space between the sea and the land Through a range of conceptual and thematic chapters this book remedies that Scotland a country where one is never more than fifty miles from saltwater provides a platform as regards the majority of chapters in accounting for and supporting the clusters of scholarship that have begun to gather around the coast The book presents a new approach that is distinct from both terrestrial and maritime history and which helps bring environmental history to the shore Its cross disciplinary perspectives will be of appeal to scholars and students in those fields as well as in the environmental humanities coastal archaeology human geography and anthropology

Scotland Dennis Smith, Paul Barnaby, Ulrike Morét, 1998

Scotland is probably the only sovereign nation to have chosen in a more or less free vote to surrender its independence in order to merge with a larger more powerful neighbour For most of the period since the Union of 1707 the Scots were enthusiastic partners with England in creating and administering the British Empire Inevitably therefore the end of empire caused an identity crisis in Scotland For more than a Century pressure for political home rule produced no tangible results

The People's Year Book and Annual of the English & Scottish Wholesale Societies , 1927

British Built Aircraft Volume 3 Ron Smith, 2004 Third in a series of five volumes about British aircraft this book provides a complete record of aircraft construction in South East England Every manufacturer no matter how small in South East England excluding Greater London is recorded here along with many previously unpublished images of the aircraft designed and built in the South East
