The Law of the Sea William T. Specially Protected Marine Areas in the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) Thomas Dux, 2011 This thesis examines the question of what States are legally empowered to do under international law when they seek to protect certain areas of their Exclusive Economic Zone EEZ In this context the regulation of shipping and other human activities under the Law of the Sea Convention and in particular the regime for special areas under Article 211 6 of the Convention are addressed Global and regional instruments containing mechanisms to protect specific areas are discussed and relevant State practice is considered with a view to possible implications on customary international law Finally guidance is given as to what States can practically do to protect specific areas of their EEZ for environmental reason Series Schriften zum See und Hafenrecht Vol 18

The Exclusive Economic Zone Charles Quince, 2019-02-15 Traditionally the law of the sea was divided into the territorial sea and the high seas which accounted for the application of different rules under different circumstances Concerning the territorial sea the coastal state enjoys full sovereignty to the right of innocent passage while under the high seas rules all countries enjoy multifaceted uses of the sea qualified only by the limitations imposed by international law The development of the exclusive economic zone ended this traditional dualism and ushered in guidelines that are embodied within the text of the LOS Convention The Exclusive Economic Zone presents to academia and the general reading public a comprehensive study of the EEZ concept as it relates to the LOS Convention and state practice The Exclusive Economic Zone shows that even though coastal states have the right to develop a 200 miles EEZ and that this right is an integral part of contemporary international relations it is also true that the EEZ concept is shrouded in legal ambiguities Using qualitative and inductive methods the scholarship draws on treaties official proclamations government archives and scholarly works that are germane to the development of the EEZ Students scholars and members of the general public with an interest in international law will find that The Exclusive Economic Zone deepens their understanding of the evolution of the EEZ concept

René Jean Dupuy, Daniel Vignes, 1991-10-16 The fact that the Montego Bay Convention has been only ratified by 37 States at present and that it will be some time before the 60 ratifications required by Article 308 are achieved has not prevented states from acting in accordance with the rules drawn up by the Conference Close on one hundred states have established either exclusive economic zones broadly modelled on Part V or 200 nautical mile fishery zones and drawn on the principles laid down for exploiting living resources Although these laws have been formulated unilaterally by states international custom since the judgement by the International Court of Justice in the Fisheries Case of 18 December 1951 is derived from concordant national rules This shift began even before the Conference ended and has been consolidated since then Moreover the regime governing the sea bed beyond the limits of national jurisdiction defined by Part XI which was the stumbling block of the Conference is subject to transitional arrangements on the basis of two resolutions adopted in the Conference's Final Act one providing for the establishment of a Preparatory Commission and the other on the preliminary activities of pioneer investors This two volume work an earlier edition of which appeared in French has been written by a team of experts of international renown It presents an analysis of the Convention with an additional Chapter on the legal regime governing underwater archaeological and historical objects

The IMLI Manual on International Maritime Law David Attard, Malgosia Fitzmaurice, Norman A. The Law Of The Sea Budislav Vukas, 2004 Collection of 20 essays by the author republished as initially written in English or French They reflect the development of the author's views as well as the evolution of the law of the sea itself since the beginning of the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea     A Handbook on the New Law of the Sea, Volume 2 Daniel Vignes, R.J. Dupuy, 2023-09-20 The fact that the Montego Bay Convention has been only ratified by 37 States at present and that it will be some time before the 60 ratifications required by Article 308 are achieved has not prevented states from acting in accordance with the rules drawn up by the Conference. Close on one hundred states have established either exclusive economic zones broadly modelled on Part V or 200 nautical mile fishery zones and drawn on the principles laid down for exploiting living resources. Although these laws have been formulated unilaterally by states, international custom since the judgement by the International Court of Justice in the Fisheries Case of 18 December 1951 is derived from concordant national rules. This shift began even before the Conference ended and has been consolidated since then. Moreover, the regime governing the sea bed beyond the limits of national jurisdiction defined by Part XI, which was the stumbling block of the Conference, is subject to transitional arrangements on the basis of two resolutions adopted in the Conference's Final Act, one providing for the establishment of a Preparatory Commission and the other on the preliminary activities of pioneer investors. This two volume work, an earlier edition of which appeared in French, has been written by a team of experts of international renown. It presents an analysis of the Convention with an additional Chapter on the legal regime governing underwater archaeological and historical objects.

Law of the Sea in East Asia Keyuan Zou, 2013-04-03 Law of the Sea in East Asia selects the most prominent maritime legal issues that have emerged since the post LOS Convention era for a detailed discussion and assessment. The current marine legal order in East Asia is based on the 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (LOS Convention) and accordingly coastal states in the region are obliged to cooperate amongst themselves to exercise their rights and perform their duties. Keyuan, a respected expert in the fields of international and Chinese law, explores issues concerning compliance with the law of the sea, territorial disputes and maritime boundary delimitation, fishery management, safety of navigation and maritime security and neglected issues in the law of the sea. This is the first book to examine maritime laws in East Asia and as such will appeal to academics of law and Asian studies, lawyers and policy makers.     The Law of the Sea Laura Pineschi, Tullio Treves, 2021-09-27 The United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea of 10 December 1982 entered into force on 16 November 1994. Since this date a single binding instrument has regulated the rights and duties of States at sea and regarding the sea. New concepts such as the exclusive economic zone, archipelagic waters, transit passage through straits and the International Seabed Area are now fully recognized. The fifteen member States of the European Union are a significant sample for analyzing the practice of States or at least that of the Western industrialized States as regards the law of the sea. They include major and small maritime powers, coastal and land locked States, States with coasts on the Atlantic Ocean and States with coasts on semi enclosed seas such as the Baltic and the Mediterranean. States with and without involvement in deep seabed mining and States with different interests as regards fisheries. The fact that they all belong to the European Union is a very important common feature which amply justifies the choice made to study them together. The book's aim is to give through essays prepared by well known specialists a detailed survey of the attitudes and practice concerning the law of the sea of the member States of the European Union and of the European Community as such. The common positions of the member States and the results of their coordinated action also emerge from these essays. The fact that the member States and the European Community are now actively engaged in the process of becoming parties to the Law of the Sea Convention is certainly a major contribution to the consolidation of the Convention as a universal instrument or at least as an instrument widely ratified by States of all continents and economic and political interests.
