strong similarities among the pottery traditions of the Kayenta region the Hopi Mesas and the Homol ovi villages near Winslow Arizona Architectural evidence marshaled by Lyons corroborates his conclusion that the inhabitants of Homol ovi were immigrants from the north Placing the Homol ovi case study in a larger context Lyons synthesizes evidence of northern immigrants recovered from sites dating between A D 1250 and 1450 His data support Patricia Crown s contention that the movement of these groups is linked to the origin of the Salado polychromes and further indicate that these immigrants and their descendants were responsible for the production of Roosevelt Red Ware throughout much of the Greater Southwest Offering an innovative juxtaposition of anthropological data bearing on Hopi migrations and oral accounts of the tribe s origin and history Lyons highlights the many points of agreement between these two bodies of knowledge Lyons argues that appreciating the scale of population movement that characterized the late prehistoric period is prerequisite to understanding regional phenomena such as Salado and to illuminating the connections between tribal peoples of the Southwest and their ancestors

Annual Meeting,2002 Is there evidence of children in the archaeological record Some would answer no that subadults can only be distinguished when there is osteological confirmation Others might suggest that the reason children don t exist in prehistory is because no one has looked for them much as no one had looked for women in the same context until recently Focusing on the Southwest contributors to this volume attempt to find some of those children or at least show how they might be found They address two issues what was the cultural construction of childhood What were childrens lives like Determining how cultures with written records have constructed childhood in the past is hard enough but the difficulty is magnified in the case of ancient Puebloan societies The contributors here offer approaches from careful analysis of artifacts and skeletal remains to ethnographic evidence in rock art Topics include ceramics and evidence of child manufacture and painting cradleboards evidence of child labor and osteological evidence of health conditions
