Behind the Lines Michael F. Dilley,2013-09-30 The array of new technologies that came on the scene in the early 20th century resulted in widely varied new forms of military special operations once civilization embarked on its greatest war Suddenly fighting men could be delivered by parachute submarine glider jeeps and fast amphibious craft deep into enemy territory to perform special tasks yet others would continue to perform missions the same as their ancestors in previous wars on foot using stealth endurance and patience This work contains discussions of the employment of various special purpose special mission organizations during World War II These units operated in Allied and Axis countries and in various theaters of war including Europe North Africa the Pacific Asia and the continental United States Representing every major combatant the operations include various kinds of raids intelligence gathering missions support to partisan guerrilla groups prisoner rescues direct action missions and at least two where the object was simply to steal something Some missions would have been officially denied if the operations had been caught in the act The book is divided into two sections Behind Enemy Lines and Behind Friendly Lines to demonstrate that special purpose organizations can be employed wherever needed even in areas controlled by military units of their own or allied countries Many of the units described run the gamut of special mission types from commando to parachute units reconnaissance to sabotage units and partisan training units as well as those with combined missions Many of the operations described in this book continue to serve as templates for modern Special Operations missions while still others the first attempts of their kind continue to serve as examples of what not to try under the circumstances Michael F Dilley served for 20 years in the U S Army s Military Intelligence branch After retiring from the Army the author served for about ten years as an employee of the Department of Defense then as a contractor for various U S Government agencies in several fields for 15 years Author of several books and many articles a number of these chapters are based on his previous writings for the legendary Behind the Lines magazine

Rangers at War Shelby L. Stanton,2011-07-06

Shelby Stanton has emerged as the leading military historian on the war in Southest Asia COL CHARLES B MacDONALD Author of COMPANY COMMANDER and A TIME FOR TRUMPETS One of the toughest and most challenging jobs in Vietnam was to be a U S Army Ranger running Long Range Reconnaissance Patrols

The LRRPs took volunteers only and training was designed to weed out all but the best. What emerged was an elite outfit of warriors in the finest sense of the word. Now Shelby Stanton, renowned military authority on the war in Southeast Asia, presents the first and only definitive history of the LRRPs and the U S Army Rangers in Vietnam. They're all here: the Screaming Eagle Patrollers, Cochise Raiders, Charlie Rangers, Cobra, Lightning Patrollers, and more. Somewhere in Burma

Austin B. McLogan, 2023-08-10

The war letters of Lt Edward A McLogan, Merrill's Marauder and Army Ranger Hall of Fame Inductee. Over 175 letters written home to family and acquaintances during WWII, including dozens of photos, articles, maps, v-mails, and memorabilia.

Letter No 89: What I am going to do next portends to be new, different, and exciting. Other than that, this business for which I volunteered is as much a mystery to me as it is to you.

Letter No 133: Some things are indelibly implanted in my memory, but I'm certain I'm not in the least morose, nor have I lost my sense of humor. My general outlook on life is just the same, but now I know that just to be at home and live is actually enough for any man. To make life's little problems seem trivial and most inconsequential.

I recommend a little dose of what we've had.

Letter No 151: Easter was one of the happiest days I have known, because on that day the iron ring the Nips had forged around us was broken after two weeks of the heaviest fighting of the campaign.

Letter No 157: Let me tell you how we from the South Pacific were recruited. I was on Vella La Vella at the time, and the regimental adjutant came around one morning to read us an important document. Our entire company gathered around him, and this is what he read: Volunteers are wanted for a dangerous and important mission to take place in another theater of operations. To qualify, he must be battle-experienced, jungle-wise, physically rugged, and able to live off the land. In almost the same breath, he added: Those who want to volunteer, step over here. The rest of you go back to your holes.

Letter No 164: At dawn, I got one man up to the line with orders for those who were left to withdraw under protection of mortar fire. Two men came back; six of our boys remained there for eternity, and four days later we buried them in the holes where they lay. God, it was awful. You could hardly identify their bodies after that length of time. There were about ten Japs round about them, to whom we did the honor of throwing a shovelful of dirt in their faces. It was odd, but a dead Jap and a dead Yank look just the same; their expression and coloring are identical.

Rotary Club Speech

At this time in the morning, our uniformed blouses were almost white with many previous days of dried sweat. No matter in another hour or two of hard walking, today's sweat would turn them green again. If we came to a stream, and sometimes that happened three or four times a day, it was a trade-off. We walked with a full canteen full of sparkling clean water, but of course, wet feet and maybe a half a dozen leeches. When they'd be from your chest or thighs or calves, when they'd fill with blood, they'd let go and drop down your pant legs, and usually you'd end up walking on them with them in your shoes.

Man to Man LTG (Ret.)

William G. Boykin, Lela Gilbert, 2020-04-14

Masculinity in America has never been under attack the way it is today. We have reached the point where the term itself is considered toxic or offensive. To many American men, it is conflicted as to what their role is in society. The consistent message that has proliferated in our nation is that masculinity by nature is bad and is the root cause of many of the problems plaguing our society Everything from racism to pedophilia has been blamed on toxic masculinity Some colleges and universities are now offering classes on how to overcome or be delivered from this very threatening phenomenon called masculinity If men take up biblical mandates ordained by their Creator no matter their color nationality station upbringing or education a new vision can be cast and executed that will restore a civil and prosperous America for all
