McKee,2014-04-03 This book explores the relationship among gender desire and narrative in 1940s woman s films which negotiate the terrain between public history and private experience The woman s film and other form of cinematic melodrama have often been understood as positioning themselves outside history and this book challenges and modifies that understanding contextualizing the films it considers against the backdrop of World War II In addition in paying tribute to and departing from earlier feminist formulations about gendered spectatorship in cinema McKee argues that such models emphasized a masculine centered gaze at the inadvertent expense of understanding other possible modes of identification and gender expression in classical narrative cinema She proposes ways of understanding gender and narrative based in part on literary narrative theory and ultimately works toward a notion of an androgynous spectatorship and mode of interpretation in the 1940s woman s film      Weird Lullabies Betty Jay,2008 This book focuses on the mother daughter relationship as it features in a number of films from the 1990s onwards Bringing the insights of psychoanalysis and feminism to bear on a diverse and compelling range of representations of the mother daughter dynamic the author addresses a range of questions relating to the social historical and cultural conditions which go to inform the female experience These include in relation to Dolores Claiborne Heavenly Creatures and The Others an exploration of different forms of familial violence and resistance to it and in One True Thing Stepmom and Pieces of April questions about the construction of the ideal mother and her loss From The Piano s engagement with French feminism and Losing Chase s reworking of the life and work of Virginia Woolf to the depiction of cross racial relationships during apartheid in Friends the films that go to make up this study all share a central concern with both the literal and symbolic forms that the mother daughter relationship encompasses      Movies in American History Philip C.
