Kenneth McConkey, Anna Gruetzner
Robins

The Imprebionists Diary 1990:

Impressionism in Britain Kenneth McConkey, Anna Gruetzner Robins, 1995-01-01 Late in his career Claude Monet returned to London to paint the fog that had entranced him years before The resulting sequence of pictures represents some of the fascination that French painters felt for Britain Similarly many British collectors and young painters embraced and were influenced by the work of the French Impressionists This book describes the activities of the French Impressionist painters on their visits to Britain considers the dissemination of Impressionist painting through British dealers and collectors explores the response of artists from Britain and Ireland to the Impressionist movement and sets all of these against the backdrop of late Victorian and Edwardian Britain McConkey and Robins describe the work of Monet Pissarro Sisley and other Impressionists working in London showing how this art influenced the community of young British painters disenchanted with British art schools and art exhibiting standards The authors investigate the role played by two innovative painters who were American expatriates James McNeill Whistler and John Singer Sargent And they explain how such artists as William Orpen George Clausen Stanhope Forbes Henry La Thangue Walter Sickert and Philip Wilson Steer sought out new and radical approaches to picture making formed new secessionist art societies and articulated new concepts of the role of art rejecting historical pageants and fashionable aestheticism and focusing on modern rural and urban conditions The book is the catalogue of an exhibition that will be at the Barbican Art Gallery in London from January to March 1995 and then move to Dublin

Literary Impressionism and Modernist Aesthetics Jesse Matz, 2001-08-02 Jesse Matz examines the writing of such modernists as Henry James Joseph Conrad and Virginia Woolf who used the word impression to describe what they wanted their fiction to present Matz redefines literary Impressionism focusing on the way that impressions destroy standard perceptual distinctions between thinking and sensing believing and suspecting He argues that these writers favoured not immediate subjective sense but rather a mode that would mediate perceptual distinctions Just as impressions fall somewhere between thought and sense Impressionist fiction occupies the middle ground between opposite ways of engaging with the world Matz also argues that the resulting confusion becomes a basic plot feature of modernist fiction This wide ranging 2001 study addresses the problems of perception and representation that occupied writers in the early decades of the twentieth century

Redefining Gender in American Impressionist Studio Paintings Kirstin Ringelberg, 2017-07-05 Were late nineteenth century gender boundaries as restrictive as is generally held In Redefining Gender in American Impressionist Studio Paintings Work Place Domestic Space Kirstin Ringelberg argues that it is time to bring the current re evaluation of the notion of separate spheres to these images Focusing on studio paintings by American artists William Merritt Chase and Mary Fairchild MacMonnies Low she explores how the home based painting studio existed outside of entrenched gendered divisions of public and private space and argues that representations of these studios are at odds with standard perceptions of the images their creators and the concept of gender in the nineteenth century Unlike most of their bourgeois contemporaries Gilded Age artists whether male or female often melded the worlds of work and home Through analysis of both paintings and literature of the time Ringelberg reveals how art history continues to support a false dichotomy that in fact paintings that show women negotiating a complex combination of professionalism and domesticity are still overlooked in favor of those that emphasize women as decorative objects Redefining Gender in American Impressionist Studio Paintings challenges the dominant interpretation of American and European Impressionism and considers both men and women artists as active performers of multivalent identities

Nineteenth- and Twentieth-century Paintings Richard R. Brettell, Paul Hayes Tucker, Natalie Henderson Lee, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 2009 Robert Lehman 1891 1969 one of the foremost art collectors of his generation embraced the work of both traditional and modern masters This volume catalogues 130 nineteenth and twentieth century paintings that are now part of the Robert Lehman Collection at The Metropolitan Museum of Art The majority of the works are by artists based in France but there are also examples from the United States Latin America and India reflecting Lehman's global interests The catalogue opens with outstanding paintings by Ingres Thodore Rousseau and Corot among other early nineteenth century artists They are joined by an exemplary selection of Impressionist and Post Impressionist works by Degas Renoir Sisley Pissarro Seurat Signac Van Gogh Cezanne and Gauguin Twentieth century masters represented here include Bonnard Matisse Rouault Dal and Balthus There are also newly researched modern works by Vicente do Rego Monteiro Kees van Dongen Dietz Edvard and D G Kulkarni dizi Robert Lehman's cultivated taste for nineteenth century French academic practitioners and his intuitive eye for emerging young artists of his own time are documented and discussed Three hundred comparative illustrations supplement the catalogue entries as do extensively researched provenance information exhibition histories and references The volume also includes a bibliography and indexes
