traditional ceramics John A Burrison writes about how a potter applies aesthetics to utilitarian objects to transform raw clay into something beautiful Though what is considered beautiful in art changes from culture to culture and person to person there are universal techniques such as manipulating form color texture and more that tap into clay s potential for beauty Burrison uses an approach from a perspective of international artistry rather than an approach bound by history or geography After beginning with more than 40 000 images that the author curated as a study resource Beautiful Clay narrows it down to around 230 images that capture the artistry within traditional ceramics worldwide Beautiful Clay examines the aesthetic dimensions of what is essentially a traditional utilitarian craft the ancient clay based craft of pottery from earliest times to the present

Recreating First Contact Joshua A. Bell,Alison K. Brown,Robert J. Gordon,2013-11-06 Recreating First Contact explores themes related to the proliferation of adventure travel which emerged during the early twentieth century and that were legitimized by their associations with popular views of anthropology During this period new transport and recording technologies particularly the airplane and automobile and small portable still and motion picture cameras were utilized by a variety of expeditions to document the last untouched places of the globe and bring them home to eager audiences. These expeditions were frequently presented as first contact encounters and enchanted popular imagination. The various narratives encoded in the articles, books, films, exhibitions, and lecture tours that these expeditions generated fed into pre-existing stereotypes about racial and technological difference and helped to create them anew in popular culture. Through an unpacking of expeditions and their popular wakes, the essays in 12 chapters, a preface, introduction, and afterward trace the complex but obscured relationships between anthropology, adventure travel, and the cinematic imagination that the 1920s and 1930s engendered and how their myths have endured. The book further explores the effects, both positive and negative, of such expeditions on the discipline of anthropology itself. However, in doing so, this volume examines these impacts from a variety of national perspectives and thus, through these different vantage points, creates a more nuanced perspective on how expeditions were at once a global phenomenon but also culturally ordered.

Topics include biography, pedagogy, philosophy, poetry, coding, arts critique, curation, and writing about Indigenous art. Featuring two original poems, ten essays authored by senior scholars in the field of Indigenous art, nearly two hundred works of art, and twenty-four archival photographs from the IAIA's nearly sixty-year history, Making History offers an opportunity to engage the contemporary Native Arts movement.

Nomadic Cinema Alison Griffiths, 2025-04-15. From In Borneo: the Land of the Head Hunters to The Epic of Everest to Camping Among the Indians, the early twentieth century was the heyday of expedition filmmaking. As new technologies transformed global transportation and opened new avenues for documentation, and as imperialism and capitalism expanded their reach, Western filmmakers embarked on journeys to places they saw as exotic, seeking to capture both the monumental and the mundane. Their films portrayed far-flung locales, the hardships of travel, and the day-to-day lives of Indigenous people through a deeply colonial lens. Nomadic Cinema is a groundbreaking history of these films, analyzing them as visual records of colonialism that also offer new possibilities for recognizing Indigenous histories. Alison Griffiths examines expedition films made in Borneo Central Asia Tibet Polynesia and the American Southwest reinterpreting them from decolonial perspectives to provide alternative accounts of exploration She considers the individuals and institutions including the American Museum of Natural History responsible for creating the films the spectators who sought them out and the Indigenous intermediaries whose roles white explorers minimized Ambitious and interdisciplinary Nomadic Cinema ranges widely from the roots of expedition films in medieval cartography and travel writing to still emerging technologies of virtual and augmented reality Highlighting the material conditions of filmmaking and the environmental footprint left by exploration this book recovers Indigenous memory and sovereignty from within long buried sources The Art of Dale Chihuly Dale Chihuly,2008-06-11 Dale Chihuly is the most famous and influential artist working in glass today A career spanning biographical essay by curator Timothy Anglin Burgard and stunning colour photography of the works will captivate Chihuly s myriad fans both old and new Anthropology and the Racial Politics of Culture Lee D. Baker,2010-03-03 An account of how anthropology has responded to and helped shape ideas about race and culture in the United States and how its ideas have been appropriated to different ends
