Iconoclasm in Aesthetics Michael Kelly, 2003-09-04 Contemporary theorizing about art is dominated by a clash between two approaches philosophers have characteristically taken the view that art is a vehicle of some universal meaning or truth while art historians and others working in the humanities emphasize the concrete nature and historical particularity of the work of art Is art capable of sustaining these two approaches Or as Kelly argues is art rather determined by its historical particularity If so then if philosophers continue to pursue mainly the universality of art they inadvertently end up exhibiting a disinterest and distrust in art Kelly calls such disinterest and distrust iconoclasm and in this book he discusses four philosophers Heidegger Adorno Derrida and Danto who are ultimately iconoclasts despite their deep philosophical engagement with the arts He concludes by suggesting ways in which iconoclasm in aesthetics can be avoided in the future
