The Limits Of Autobiography Trauma Testimony Theory:

The Limits of Autobiography Leigh Gilmore, 2023-07-15 In The Limits of Autobiography Leigh Gilmore analyzes texts that depict trauma by combining elements of autobiography fiction biography history and theory in ways that challenge the constraints of autobiography Astute and compelling readings of works by Michel Foucault Louis Althusser Dorothy Allison Mikal Gilmore Jamaica Kincaid and Jeanette Winterson explore how each poses the questions How have I lived and How will I live in relation to the social and psychic forms within which trauma emerges First published in 2001 this new edition of one of the foundational texts in trauma studies includes a new preface by the author that assesses the gravitational pull between life writing and trauma in the twenty first century a tension that continues to produce innovative and artful means of confronting kinship violence and self representation

Autobiographies of Others Lucia Boldrini, 2012-08-21 In this volume Boldrini examines heterobiography the first person fictional account of a historic life Boldrini shows that this mode is widely employed to reflect critically on the historical and philosophical understanding of the human on individual identity and on the power relationships that define the subject In such texts the grammatical first person becomes the site of an encounter a stage where the relationships between historical fictional and authorial subjectivities are played out and explored in the double I of author and narrating historical character of fictional narrator and historical person Boldrini considers the ethical implications of assuming another s first person voice and the fraught issue of authorial responsibility

Constructions of the body are examined in relation to the material evidence of the subject s existence Texts studied include Malouf s An Imaginary Life Carey s True History of the Kelly Gang Ondaatje s The Collected Works of Billy the Kid Adair s The Death of the Author Banti s Artemisia V zquez Montalb n s Autobiograf a del general Franco Also discussed among others Yourcenar s Memoirs of Hadrian Tabucchi s The Last Three Days of Fernando Pessoa Gim nez Bartlett s Una habitaci n ajena A Room of Someone Else s

Anne Sexton Paula M. Salvio, 2012-02-01 Winner of the 2008 Critics Choice Award presented by the American Educational Studies Association A Pulitzer Prize winning poet who confessed the unrelenting anguish of addiction and depression Anne Sexton 1928 1974 was also a dedicated teacher In this book Paula M Salvio opens up Sexton s classroom uncovering a teacher who willfully demonstrated that the personal could also be plural Looking at how Sexton framed and used the personal in teaching and learning Salvio considers the extent to which our histories both personal and social exert their influence on teaching In doing so she situates the teaching life of Anne Sexton at the center of some of the key problems and questions in feminist teaching navigating the appropriate distance between teacher and student the relationship between writer and poetic subject and the relationship between emotional life and knowledge Examining Sexton s pedagogy with its weird abundance of tactics and strategies Salvio argues that Sexton s use of the autobiographical I is as much a literary identity as a literal identity one that can speak with great force to educators who recognize its vital role in the humanities classroom

Realism's Others Eva Aldea, Geoffrey Baker, 2010-07-12 For at least a century scholarship on realist narrative and occasional polemics against realist narrative have assumed that realism promotes the values of sameness against those of otherness and that it does so by use of a narrative mode that excludes certain epistemologies ideologies and ways of thinking However the truth is more complex than that as the essays in this volume all demonstrate Realism's Others examines the various strategies by which realist narratives create the idea of difference whether that difference is registered in terms of class ethnicity epistemology nationality or gender The authors in this collection examine in detail not just the fact of otherness in some canonical realist and canonical magical realist and postmodern novels but the actual means by which that otherness is established by the text These essays suggest that neither realist narrative nor narratives positioned as anti realist take otherness for granted rather the texts discussed here actively create difference and this creation of difference often occasions severe difficulties for the novels representational schema How does one represent different types of knowledge other aesthetic modes or other spaces for example in texts whose epistemology has long been seen as secular and empirical whose aesthetic mode has always been approached as pure descriptive mimesis and whose settings are largely domestic These essays all begin with a certain collision of nationalities of classes of representational matrices of religions and go on to chart the challenges that this collision presents to our ideas or stereotypes of realism or to the possibilities of writing against and beyond realism This question motivates examination of key realist or social realist texts in some of these essays by Honor de Balzac George Eliot Franz Grillparzer Theodor Storm Gottfried Keller Theodor Fontane Wilhelm Raabe Mar a Amparo Ruiz de Burton Henry James William Dean Howells Charles Chesnutt Theodore Dreiser H T Tsiang Alan Sillitoe and Richard Yates However it is no less central a question in certain non realist texts which engage realist aims to a surprising degree often to debate them openly some of these essays discuss in this light fantastic magical realist and postmodern works by Abram Tertz Paul Auster Alejo Carpentier Toni Morrison Gabriel Garc a M rquez Salman Rushdie and A S Byatt Realism becomes more than an aesthetic aim or narrative mode It becomes rather a value evoked and discussed by all of the works analyzed here in order to reveal its impact on fiction's treatment of ethnicity nationality ideology space gender and social class

Illness as Narrative Ann Jurečič, 2012-03-12 For most of literary history personal confessions about illness were considered too intimate to share publicly By the mid twentieth century however a series of events set the stage for the emergence of the illness narrative The increase of chronic disease the transformation of medicine into big business the women's health movement the AIDS HIV pandemic the advent of inexpensive paperbacks and the rise of self publishing all contributed to the proliferation of narratives about encounters with medicine and mortality. While the illness narrative is now a staple of the publishing industry, the genre itself has posed a problem for literary studies. What is the role of criticism in relation to personal accounts of suffering? Can these narratives be judged on aesthetic grounds? Are they a collective expression of the lost intimacy of the patient-doctor relationship? Is their function thus instrumental to elicit the reader's empathy? To answer these questions, Ann Jurecic turns to major works on pain and suffering by Susan Sontag, Elaine Scarry, and Eve Sedgwick and reads these alongside illness narratives by Jean-Dominique Bauby, Reynolds Price, and Anne Fadiman among others. In the process, she defines the subgenres of risk and pain narratives and explores a range of critical responses guided alternately by narrative empathy, the hermeneutics of suspicion, and the practice of reparative reading. Illness as Narrative seeks to draw wider attention to this form of life writing and to argue for new approaches to both literary criticism and teaching narrative. Jurecic calls for a practice that's both compassionate and critical. She asks that we consider why writers compose stories of illness, how readers receive them, and how both use these narratives to make meaning of human fragility and mortality.

American Secrets José Liste-Noya, Eduardo Barros-Grela, 2011-09-16 Predicated upon the principles of political freedom, cultural openness, religious tolerance, individual self-reliance, and ethnic diversity, the United States of America has been tempted recurrently by the lures of the secret. American Secrets explores this political, historical, and cultural phenomenon from many, often surprisingly overlapping angles. In these analyses of the literary and cultural uses and abuses of secrecy within a democratic culture, through analyses of diverse literary works and cultural manifestations from Mark Twain's anti-imperialist prophecies to 9/11 conspiracy theories, from the traumas of the Vietnam War to the homophobia of the American military establishment, from the unresolved dilemmas of nuclear politics to the secret ecologies shunted aside by the exploitation of the environment, from the questionings of national identity on the ethnic and transsexual margins to the confessional modes of poetry and the poetics of the unspeakable and unrepresentable, these essays reveal the politics within the poetics and indissociably the poetics fueling the politics of secrecy in its ambivalent deployment. Secrecy often seems to be a question without an answer or an answer that either seems to beg the question or to be a question itself. These essays address this paradox with their own questioning explorations. In answering such questions, the volume as a whole provides an illuminating overview of the pervasiveness of the secret and its modalities in American culture while also dealing specifically with the poetics of the secret in its various historically recurrent literary manifestations.

Everybody's Family Romance Gillian Harkins, 2009 In the 1990s, a boom in autobiographical novels and memoirs about incest emerged, making incest one of the hottest topics to connect daytime TV talk shows, the self-help industry, and the literary publishing circuit. In Everybody's Family Romance, Gillian Harkins places this proliferation of incest literature at the center of transformations in the political and economic climate of the late twentieth century. Harkins's interdisciplinary approach reveals how women's narratives about incest were co-opted by and yet retained resistant strains against the cultural logics of the neoliberal state Across chapters examining legal cases on recovered memory popular journalism and novels and memoirs by Dorothy Allison Carolivia Herron Kathryn Harrison and Sapphire Harkins demonstrates that incest narratives look backward into the past In these accounts images of incest forge links between U S chattel slavery and the distributive impasses of the welfare state and between decades distant childhoods and emergent memories of the present In contrast to recent claims that incest narratives eclipse broader frameworks of political and economic power Harkins argues that their emergence exposes changing structural relations between the family and the nation and in doing so transforms the analyses of American familial sexual violence
