For Adam's Sake: A Family Saga in Colonial New England Allegra di Bonaventura, 2013-04-22 Winner of the New England Historical Association's James P. Hanlan Book Award Winner the Association for the Study of Connecticut History's Homer D. Babbidge Jr. Award Incomparably vivid as enthralling a portrait of family life in colonial New England as we are likely to have Wall Street Journal In the tradition of Laurel Thatcher Ulrich's classic A Midwife's Tale comes this groundbreaking narrative by one of America's most promising colonial historians Joshua Hempstead was a well-respected farmer and tradesman in New London, Connecticut. As his remarkable diary kept from 1711 until 1758 reveals, he was also a slave owner who owned Adam Jackson for over thirty years. In this engrossing narrative of family life and the slave experience in the colonial North, Allegra di Bonaventura describes the complexity of this master-slave relationship and traces the intertwining stories of two families until the eve of the Revolution. Slavery is often left out of our collective memory of New England's history, but it was hugely impactful on the central unit of colonial life: the family. In every corner, the lines between slavery and freedom were blurred as families across the social spectrum fought to survive. In this enlightening study, a new portrait of an era emerges.

Homegrown Terror Eric D. Lehman, 2012-01-01 This lively biography of America's most famous traitor offers a new perspective on his terrible legacy as well as life in Revolutionary Era Connecticut. On September 6, 1781, Connecticut native Benedict Arnold and a force of 1,700 British soldiers and loyalists took Fort Griswold and burnt New London to the ground. The brutality of the invasion galvanized the new nation, and "Remember New London" would become a rallying cry for troops under General Lafayette. In Homegrown Terror, Eric D. Lehman chronicles the events leading up to the attack and highlights this key transformation in Arnold, the point where he went from betraying his comrades to massacring his neighbors and destroying their homes. This defining incident forever marked him as a symbol of evil, turning an antiheroic story about weakness of character and missed opportunity into one about the nature of treachery itself. Homegrown Terror draws upon a variety of primary sources and perspectives from the traitor himself to his former comrades like Jonathan Trumbull and Silas Deane to the murdered Colonel Ledyard. Rethinking Benedict Arnold through the lens of this terrible episode, Lehman sheds light on the ethics of the dawning nation and the way colonial America responded to betrayal and terror.

The Bear Tree and Other Stories from Cazenovia's History Erica Barnes, Jason Emerson, 2021-11-15 The historic lakeside village of Cazenovia in the scenic Finger Lakes region is one of the jewels of Central New York, and yet very few books have told its story. Cazenovia is a town founded by wealthy men, and much of what has been written about it has focused on the elite and the grand lakeshore mansions in which they lived. In contrast, Barnes and Emerson's new book chronicles the story of everyday Cazenovia: the fascinating people, places, and history of this 225-year-old community. The Bear Tree and Other Stories from Cazenovia's History explores the unheralded, inaccurately told, and long-forgotten tales of the town. Readers will encounter historical characters such as elephant and lion tamer Lucia Zora Card, the bravest woman in the world, educator Susan Blow, the mother of American kindergarten, and World War I soldier Cecil Donovan, whose letters home vividly
