Wright]. Horace Walpole (4th earl of Orford.), 1842     The Letters of Horace Walpole, Earl of Orford Horace Walpole, 1857     The Letters of Horace Walpole: 1759-1769 Horace Walpole, 1842     The Letters of Horace Walpole, Earl of Orford (Complete) Horace Walpole, 2012-04-01 You were both so entertained with the old stories I told you one evening lately of what I recollected to have seen and heard from my childhood of the courts of King George the First and of his son the Prince of Wales afterwards George the Second and of the latter's princess since Queen Caroline and you expressed such wishes that I would commit those passages for they are scarce worthy of the title even of anecdotes to writing that having no greater pleasure than to please you both nor any more important or laudable occupation I will begin to satisfy the repetition of your curiosity But observe I promise no more than to begin for I not only cannot answer that I shall have patience to continue but my memory is still so fresh or rather so retentive of trifles which first made impression on it that it is very possible my life turned of seventy one may be exhausted before my stock of remembrances especially as I am sensible of the garrulity of old age and of its eagerness of relating whatever it recollects whether of moment or not Thus while I fancy I am complying with you I may only be indulging myself and consequently may wander into many digressions for which you will not care a straw and which may intercept the completion of my design Patience therefore young ladies and if you coin an old gentleman into narratives you must expect a good deal of alloy I engage for no method no regularity no polish My narrative will probably resemble siege pieces which are struck of any promiscuous metals and though they bear the impress of some sovereign's name only serve to quiet the garrison for the moment and afterwards are merely hoarded by collectors and virtuosos who think their series not complete unless they have even the coins of base metal of every reign As I date from my nonage I must have laid up no state secrets Most of the facts I am going to tell you though new to you and to most of the present age were known perhaps at the time to my nurse and my tutors Thus my stories will have nothing to do with history Luckily there have appeared within these three months two publications that will serve as precedents for whatever I am going to say I mean Les Fragments of the Correspondence of the Duchess of Orleans and those of the Memoires of the Duc de St Simon Nothing more d'ecousu than both they tell you what they please or rather what their editors have pleased to let them tell In one respect I shall be less satisfactory They knew and were well acquainted or thought they were with their personages I did not at ten years old penetrate characters and as George 1 died at the period where my reminiscence begins and was rather a good sort of man than a shining king and as the Duchess of Kendal was no genius I heard very little of either when he and her power were no more In fact the reign of George 1 was little more than the proem to the history of England Under the House of Brunswick That family was established here by surmounting a rebellion to which settlement perhaps the phrensy of the South Sea scheme contributed by diverting the national attention from the game of faction to the delirium of stockjobbing and even faction was split into fractions by the quarrel between the king and the heir apparent another interlude which authorizes me to call the reign of George 1 a proem to the history of the reigning House of Brunswick so successively agitated by parallel feuds
