The ART and MYSTERY of Printing Emblematically Displayed.

Devil with Devil Amos's
First printed letter. Mrs. only Allegory.
Of creature rational. Pencil. Lond. B. 21. 494.

Mr. BAYNE.

I was going the other day into Lincoln's-inn, under the great gate-way, I met several folks with bags of children's toys, loaded with them, and a great number of news-papers, led by a fully fellow, who turned round and stopped them in the passage. They were all exceeding black and dirty; and made in very odd a figure, that I could not but stop and gaze upon them. Some that looked belted and through up the rear; I did cross out of the Stamp-office; from whence I rightly inferred, that they were Printer Devils, carrying from whence the returns of odd news-papers, after the Stamp had been cut off. I thought something unusual would ensue; nor was I deceived in my expectation by the following Dialogue, which I commenced in saying, as soon as I returned to my lodgings. The Dialogue I have distinguished by names, with as great propriety as I could, either from the appearance, the person themselves made, or from the information of others. I have kept as near as possible to the thoughts and expressions of these black gnomes; at least which I was not a little surprised at first. But when I considered, that many persons in higher life, without ever reading an all, suppose, both by conversation, a faculty of talking, with great fluency, upon variety of subjects, that they neither understand them, nor the language in which they talk; I did not think it disagreeable, that these gnomes, that moving in a lower sphere, yet having considerable opportunities of reading the weekly works of our political writers, or at least of hearing them read, should obtain, in some degree, their way of speaking and thinking. Thus when they generally cry on the streets, might get into the inside of their heads; from whence it proceeds in the following manner.

First-messenger. Devils, Devils, Devils, and Devils. Let us fly here, and lay down our business for a while we upon the ground, since the bell is fast off, and we are violently deflected from our property. Our property, I say, is that which we are fast upon, position, as it is for a part, since we have applied us to that time, we may justly be said to have had the true position of every body. And since that time to this, thousands of petitions have given us their express content by a laughter of applause. Now when this to be wondered at, since the left to which we put this place, was of the same nature with that to which it is directed below, and was a greater improvement of it. It had been for a long while a monument of suitable history, politics, and poetry; and therefore a very proper place for us to inform ourselves of the weight of all those, which lay in heavy upon them. And what company could be more suitable to such of the present writers, than their works we find, than that of Parn, Ours, and Ours, and Ours. And since therefore we did to this place has been confirmed to us by long petitions, and our own consent, that we have placed in a way are we thus unpreparedly excluded? I should be for breaking their locks, and demolishing these flowers, which were not the least of our search some service in the Old City, then here in Lincoln's-inn. But they are always on the strongest side, and therefore make it the legal. Wealth and poverty, I have heard figure themselves to say, this two various bodies, heavy on the chains of the law, though thick and thin, through fat and good ways and wealth, just as they please, while the weak ones in his black ivory, living in the heat, as it were, for some's sake, unable to stop their career, encourage them in it, with their power which might be refined them. Hence we sometimes find the dead in a coach, who ought to ride only in a cart, which is frequently suffered to be other ways, who are driven up Lincoln's-inn by some legal contrivance.

On which account, I think, it will be better for us to acquire the under the present impudent position, and particularly to lay our business down on the ground, than to forcibly re-entrance upon our right, expose ourselves to be taken, and perhaps, rushed up, as they do not expect, since as a token of your continuance in the same opinion with myself.

JOSEPH THOMAS. I am heartily glad you are all of my mind; and when you, had you been all another, as I have as ever you had kept your own. I should have been a very much more of the other, and showed you a fair pair of heels. I think my reader, Mr. BAYNE, who was the first great instance of truly Yours, has taken the worst course. As politics is a subject which has grown more and more dangerous to private folks, he has for a long while tried to make it, and to become a much more famous biographer than Mr. Gyles himself. It is an odd small contribution to their health, but unfortunate gentlemen, who together with at the Chancery as Tyburn, where all are first introduced, that a false account of their lives and transactions, were as directed by themselves, should be printed in a Weekly Journal. It is therefore of great advantage to the public in general, as well as to my reader in particular, to publish the day lives of these Gentlemen; which are much more instructive to the public, than copies of letters and reflections, which are always added to the Chancery and Memories, only to fill the volumes. These lives of these men, he is called the day on the day, but most properly English; and I have heard that several ancient writers have declared, that they contain more fixed divinity, in better language, than any of those delivered at the Chancery house and Chancery. — But, notwithstanding all this, I am heartily glad, that you should have been all of this; for I think it best of the day lives of these men, my intention, to ever lay upon my back, I should hardly have under it, as the most fat and heavy burden I ever carried in my life. — But I beg your pardon, Mr. President, for this long interruption; for you begin to have something of great importance in your conversation.

First-messenger. Devils. — That my Devils, who have been Devil in the day, London Evening Post, and Universal Spectator, ever since their birth; and my Devils, which is much English to you, might come to give you some sort of right to your Devils; yet I acknowledge the remarkable title you have conferred upon me, by a five-and-thirty English, to a more instance of your favour, that understood, yet not altogether unappreciated. For it forms a great consequence of the respect you have always shown me, in only taking out several papers
