Modernity and Its Discontents Steven B. Smith, 2016-08-09 Steven B. Smith examines the concept of modernity not as the end product of historical developments but as a state of mind He explores modernism as a source of both pride and anxiety suggesting that its most distinctive characteristics are the self criticisms and doubts that accompany social and political progress Providing profiles of the modern project's most powerful defenders and critics from Machiavelli and Spinoza to Saul Bellow and Isaiah Berlin this provocative work of philosophy and political science offers a novel perspective on what it means to be modern and why discontent and sometimes radical rejection are its inevitable by products

Scars of the Spirit Geoffrey Hartman, 2015-11-17 In this fascinating collection of essays noted cultural critic Geoffrey Hartman raises the essential question of where we can find the real or authentic in today's world and how this affects the way we can understand our human predicament Hartman explores such issues as the fantasy of total and perfect information available on the Internet the biographical excesses of tell all daytime talk shows and how we can understand what is true in biographical and testimonial writing And what he asks is the ethical point of all this personal testimony What has it really taught us Underlying the entire book is a question of how the Holocaust has shaped the possibilities for truth and for the writing of an authentic life story in today's world and how we can approach the world in a meaningful way Hartman produces a meditation on how an appreciation of the aesthetic qualities of art and writing may help us to answer these questions of meaning

Rhetoric and Ethics in the Cybernetic Age Jeff Pruchnic, 2013-08-15 It has become increasingly difficult to ignore the ways that the centrality of new media and technologies from the global networking of information systems and social media to new possibilities for altering human genetics seem to make obsolete our traditional ways of thinking about ethics and persuasive communication inherited from earlier humanist paradigms This book argues that rather than devoting our critical energies towards critiquing humanist touchstones we should instead examine the ways in which media and technologies have always worked as crucial cultural forces in shaping ethics and rhetoric Pruchnic combines this historical itinerary with critical interrogations of diverse cultural and technological sites the logic of video games and artificial intelligence the ethics of life extension in contemporary medicine the transition to computer automated trading in world stock markets the state of critical theory in the contemporary humanities along with innovative analyses of the works of such figures as the Greek Sophists Kenneth Burke Martin Heidegger Michel Foucault Friedrich Nietzsche and Gilles Deleuze This book argues that our best strategies for crafting persuasive communication and producing ethical relations between individuals will be those that creatively replicate and appropriate rather than resist the logics of dominant forms of media and technology Flaubert's

Reflection Remy L. Overkempe, 2016-03-20 There s most definitely a relationship between literary realism and postmodernism However it is one that is far more difficult than previously researched The goal of this BA thesis was to examine how literary realism was specifically represented by and in postmodernism Looking at how the key characteristics of Flaubertian realism are represented in the way postmodernist literary works want to reach their goals Julian Barnes s Flaubert s Parrot has been used as a case study for this exploration Touchstones Frank Shovlin, 2016 Touchstones examines the literary influences that led to John McGahern becoming Ireland s greatest fiction writer of the post war generation The Word According to James Joyce Cordell D. K. Yee, 1997 In his denial that language refers to anything but itself and in his undoing representation Joyce anticipates contemporary developments in the history of critical theory Contrary to modern criticism Joyce does not abandon representation the idea that language affords access to reality

Theater Figures Emily Allen, 2003 Why did nineteenth century novels return over again to the scene of theater Emily Allen argues that theater provided nineteenth century novels novelists and critics with a generic figure that allowed them to position particular novels and novelistic genres within a complex literary field Novel genres high and low male and female public and private realistic and romantic all came to identify themselves within a set of coordinates that included if only for the purpose of exclusion the spectacular figure of theater This figure likewise provided a trope around and against which to construct images of readers and authors images that most frequently worked to mediate between the supposedly private acts of reading and writing and the very public facts of the print market In readings of novels by Burney Austen Scott Dickens Jewsbury Flaubert Braddon and Moore Allen shows how frequently theater appears as figure in novels of the nineteenth century and how theater figures actively and importantly in what we have come to look back on as the history of the nineteenth century novel Theater Figures thus offers a new model for thinking about how theater helped produce changes in the nineteenth century literary market While previous critics have considered theater as an enabling foil for the novel either a constitutive opposite or constructive ally Allen demonstrates how theater figures and tropes were used to negotiate competition among the novels and novelists eagerly seeking their share of the literary limelight Modernism after Postcolonialism Mara de Gennaro, 2020-11-24 A polemical reaction against a trend in global modernist studies which still privileges European and Anglophone texts Existing studies of literary modernism generally read Anglophone Atlantic texts through the lens of critical theories emanating from Europe and North America In Modernism after Postcolonialism Mara de Gennaro undertakes a comparative Anglophone Francophone study invoking theoretical frameworks from Gayatri Spivak, Édouard Glissant, Françoise Vergès, Michel Rolph Trouillot, Dipesh Chakrabarty and others Examining transnational poetics of comparison that contest the comparative practices of colonialist, racist and ethno-nationalist discourses, the book treats these poetics as models for a creolist critical method of reading one that searches out unpredictable, mutually generative textual relations obscured by geographic and linguistic divides In each chapter de Gennaro pairs a canonical English language modernist writer (Gertrude Stein, T. S. Eliot, E. M. Forster, Virginia Woolf) with a postcolonial writer (Aimé Césaire, Glissant, Patrick Chamoiseau, J. M. Coetzee, Edwidge Danticat), interpreting major works of prewar and interwar modernism in light of postcolonial and Francophone literature, cultural theory and historiography Read together, these texts suggest a turn, sometimes subtle or conflicted in earlier Atlantic modernist texts, while usually more overt in later Caribbean and postcolonial texts, toward comparative forms marked by irresolution and a wavering sense of authority With the rise of world literature and global modernist studies, it becomes all the more pressing to examine how comparative forms can alert us to unspoken and misrecognized relations while also confronting us with the difficulty of representing the Other By bringing into relation these ostensibly unconnected, often discrepant texts, de Gennaro challenges entrenched territorial habits of literary meaning An aspirationally nonterritorial comparative literature, she argues, diverges not only from Eurocentric formalist approaches but also from global comparatisms that emphasize incommensurabilities to the point of eliding significant textual and contextual connections Drawing on interdisciplinary postcolonial efforts, especially in the social sciences, to deterritorialize categories of identity, culture and community, Modernism after Postcolonialism dispenses with outdated modernist and postcolonial paradigms to reveal how the anxious, inconclusive comparisons of transnational modernist poetics can call us to imagine new solidarities across bounded territories
