Islands Beyond the Horizon Roger Lovegrove, 2012-09-13 Islands have an irresistible attraction and an enduring appeal Naturalist Roger Lovegrove has visited many of the most remote islands in the world and in this book he takes the reader to twenty that fascinate him the most Some are familiar but most are little known they range from the storm

bound island of South Georgia and the ice locked Arctic island of Wrangel to the wind swept wave lashed Mykines and St Kilda The range is diverse and spectacular and whether distant offshore inhabited uninhabited tropical or polar each is a unique self contained habitat with a delicately balanced ecosystem and each has its own mystique and ineffable magnetism Central to each story is also the impact of human settlers Lovegrove recounts unforgettable tales of human endeavour tragedy and heroism But consistently he has to report on the mankind s negative impact on wildlife and habitats from the exploitation of birds for food to the elimination of native vegetation for crops By looking not only at the biodiversity of each island but also the uneasy relationship between its wildlife and the involvement of man he provides a richly detailed account of each island its diverse wildlife its human history and the efforts of conservationists to retain these irreplaceable sites

Utopias and the Environment Geoffrey Berry,2017-10-02 Utopias and the Environment explores the way in which the kind of dreaming or re visioning known as the utopian imaginary takes environmental concerns into account This kind of creative intervention is increasingly important in an era of ecological crisis as we witness the failure of governments worldwide to significantly change industrial civilization from a path of business as usual In this context it is up to the artists in this case authors to imagine new ways of being that respond to this imperative and immediate global issue Concurrently it is also up to critics readers and thinkers everywhere to appraise these narratives of possibility for their complexities and internal conflicts as well as for their promise as we enter this new era of rapid change and adaptation Because creative and critical thinkers must work together towards this goal the idea of the critical utopia coined by Tom Moylan in response to the fiction of the 1970s is now ingrained in the common argot and is one of the key ideas discussed in this book This development in the genre which combines self reflexivity and multiple perspectives within its dreaming represents the postmodern spirit in its most regenerative aspect This book is testament to such hopes and potential realities This book was originally published as a special issue of Green Letters

Demarketing Nigel Bradley,Jim Blythe,2013-10-23 We all understand the basic principles underpinning marketing activity to identify unfulfilled needs and desires and boost demand for the solutions a product is offering The mantra is always sell more De marketing tries for the very opposite Why would a company actively try to decrease demand There are many good reasons to do so a firm cannot supply large enough quantities or wants to limit supply to a region of narrow profit margin Or crucially to discourage undesirable customers those that could be bad for brand reputation or in the case of the finance sector high risk De marketing can yield effective solutions to these issues effectively curtailing demand yet crucially not destroying it Nevertheless the fundamental negativity of de marketing strategies often causes organisations to hide them from view and as a result they are rarely studied This then is the first book to cast light on the secretive counterintuitive world of de marketing deconstructing its mysteries and demonstrating how to incorporate them into a profit driven marketing plan A selection of thought leaders in strategic marketing mix theory with illustrative global cases providing insight into how these strategies have been employed in practice and measuring their successes and failures It s a must read for any student or researcher that wants to think differently about marketing
