Social Scientists For Social Justice:

Social Scientists for Social Justice John P. Jackson, Jr., 2001-11-01 In one of the twentieth century's landmark Supreme Court cases Brown v Board of Education social scientists such as Kenneth Clark helped to convince the Supreme Court Justices of the debilitating psychological effects of racism and segregation John P Jackson Jr examines the well known studies used in support of Brown such as Clark's famous doll tests as well as decades of research on race which lead up to the case Jackson reveals the struggles of social scientists in their effort to impact American law and policy on race and poverty and demonstrates that without these scientists who brought their talents to bear on the most pressing issues of the day we wouldn't enjoy the legal protections against discrimination we may now take for granted For anyone interested in the history and legacy of Brown v Board of Education this is an essential book

Educational Leadership for Ethics and Social Justice Anthony H. Normore, Jeffrey S. Brooks, 2014-01-01 The purpose of this book is to examine and learn lessons from the way leadership for social justice is conceptualized in several disciplines and to consider how these lessons might improve the preparation and practice of school leaders In particular we examine philosophy anthropology sociology economics political science public policy and psychology Our contention is that the field of educational leadership might consider taking a step backward in order to take several forward That is educational leadership researchers might re-examine social justice both in terms of social and individual dynamics and as disciplinary specific multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary phenomenon By adopting this approach we can connect and extend long established lines of conceptual and empirical inquiry and thereby gain insights that may otherwise be overlooked or assumed This holds great promise for generating refining and testing theories of social justice in educational leadership and will help strengthen already vibrant lines of inquiry That is rather than citing a single or a few works out of their disciplinary context it might be more fruitful to situate educational leadership for social justice research in their respective traditions This could be carried out by extending extant lines of inquiry in educational leadership research and then incorporating lessons gleaned from this work into innovative practice For example why not more clearly establish lines of educational leadership and justice research into the Philosophy of Social Justice Economics of Social Justice Political Studies of Social Justice Sociology of Social Justice Anthropology of Social Justice and the Public Policy of Social Justice as focused and discrete areas of inquiry Once this new orientation toward the knowledge base of social justice and educational leadership is laid we might then seek to explore some of the natural connections between traditions before ultimately investigating justice in educational leadership through a free association of ideas as the worlds of practice and research co-construct a new language they can use to discuss educational leadership Such an endeavor may demand reconceptualization of both the processes and products of collaborative research and the communication of findings but it will demand a breaking down of methodological and epistemological biases and a more meaningful level and type of engagement between primary and applied knowledge bases
