Historical Dictionary of the People's Republic of China Lawrence R. Sullivan, 2016-08-03 When the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) assumed power in October 1949 China was one of the poorest nations in the world and so weak it had been conquered in the late 1930s and early 1940s by its neighbor Japan a country one 10th its size More than five decades later the People's Republic of China (PRC) is an emerging economic political and major military power with the world's fastest growing economy and largest population 1.35 billion in 2015 A member of the United Nations Security Council since the early 1970s and a nuclear power China wields enormous influence in the world community while at home what was once a nation of largely poverty stricken peasants and urban areas with little to no industry has been transformed into an increasingly urbanized society with a growing middle class and an industrial and service sector that leads the world in such industries as steel and textiles while becoming a major player in computers and telecommunications. All the while the country has remained under the tight political control of a one party system dominated by the Chinese Communist Party that despite periods of intense political conflict and turmoil governs China with a membership in 2014 of 88 million people the largest single organization on earth. This third edition of Historical Dictionary of the People's Republic of China contains a chronology, an introduction, appendixes and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section has over 700 cross referenced entries on important personalities, politics, economy, foreign relations, religion and culture. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers and anyone wanting to know more about China.

China's Economy In Transformation Under The New Normal Sarah Yueting Tong, Jing Wan, 2017-07-07. This book examines the recent development and prospect of the Chinese economy as the country adapts to changing domestic and external settings. After more than three decades of near double digit annual expansion, the country's growth decelerated considerably to enter a new era of the so called New Normal. At the macro level, considerable amount of overhaul is required to improve governance and enhance regulatory effectiveness. These include monetary policy adjustment, financial sector development and taxation reforms. As the Chinese government at both the central and local levels plays an important role in promoting growth, issues such as the role of local government and the reform of state owned enterprises are examined in this book. Topics such as the development of private consumption and industrial upgrading are also assessed. The book discusses several matters considered important to China's social and economic cohesion, including the management of agricultural product reserves, the development of a functioning social security system and regional development. To help project a long term view of China's economic strength, the book also examines such factors as development in population and the labour market. This book provides a comprehensive analysis of China's economy and identifies the recent developments that matter to China's economic future.

Enhancing Social Protection in Asia and the Pacific Sri Wening Handayani, 2011-02-01. On 21-22 April 2010 the Asian Development Bank (ADB) organized a social protection conference in Manila. Interest in social protection has been growing since the global financial crisis heightened awareness of the many millions of people in Asia and the Pacific who live in poverty or vulnerable situations. Thus policy makers are now keen to develop social protection systems that can assist people to both leave and stay out of poverty. The conference brought together people from ADB, its developing member countries, partner agencies, research institutes and civil society organizations to exchange valuable experience and information and discuss ideas on how to develop social protection and expand it for the well being of people in Asia and the Pacific This book features selected papers from the conference that respond to the need for integrated and inclusive social protection to improve the quality of peoples lives and livelihoods Specific areas emphasized are health insurance pensions the informal sector measures targeting children and measuring and monitoring social protection China's Social Policy

Kinglun Ngok,Chak Kwan Chan,2015-10-23 This book critically and comprehensively examines China s welfare development amidst its rapid economic growth and increasing social tensions It covers the main policy areas from China s inception of the open door policy in 1978 to the new administration of Jinping Xi and Keqiang Li including social security health education housing employment rural areas migrant workers children and young people disabled people old age pensions and non governmental organisations In particular it critically analyses the impact of policy changes on the well being of Chinese people Sino-Latin American Economic Relations K.C. Fung,Alicia Garcia Herrero,2012-01-30 This book analyses the economic and policy relationships between China and Latin America Key issues covered by the contributors include international trade and direct investment empirical analysis of the complementary and intra industry trade nature of Latin American and Chinese trade the comparison of the production and trade of parts and components in East Asia and in Latin America and an examination of policy issues such as policies towards small and medium sized enterprises as well as pension reforms Chinese Social Policy in a Time of Transition Douglas Besharov,Karen Baehler,2013-05-17 The story of China s spectacular economic growth is well known Less well known is the country s equally dramatic though not always equally successful social policy transition Between the mid 1990s and mid 2000s the focal period for this book China s central government went a long way toward consolidating the social policy framework that had gradually emerged in piecemeal fashion during the initial phases of economic liberalization Major policy decisions during the focal period included adopting a single national pension plan for urban areas standardizing unemployment insurance re establishing nationwide rural health care coverage opening urban education systems to children of rural migrants introducing trilingual education policies in ethnic minority regions expanding college enrolment addressing the challenge of HIV AIDS more comprehensively and equalizing social welfare spending across provinces among others Unresolved is the direction of policy in the face of longer term industrial and demographic trends and the possibility of a chronically weak global economy Chinese Social Policy in a Time of Transition offers scholars practitioners students and policymakers a foundation from which to explore those issues based on a composite snapshot of Chinese social policy at its point of greatest maturation prior to the 2007 global crisis Human Resource Management in China Revisited Malcolm Warner,2020-10-28 This edited volume first considers the economic background of the recent changes in HRM in the People s Republic of China from 1978 to the present day exploring the change from a command economy to a more market led one It then goes on to look at the demise of so called iron rice bowl policy once dominated by a Soviet inspired Personnel Management model to one now characterized by possibly Japanese as well as Western influenced HRM albeit with what are widely described as Chinese characteristics Finally it concludes with a comparative analysis of the contributions in the book on China vis a vis an appraisal of these with the national HRM systems of Japan and South Korea This volume was previously published as a special issue of the International Journal of Human Resource Management

A Protestant Church in Communist China John Craig William Keating, 2012-02-16 Freedom of religious belief is guaranteed under the constitution of the People's Republic of China but the degree to which this freedom is able to be exercised remains a highly controversial issue Much scholarly attention has been given to persecuted underground groups such as Falun but one area that remains largely unexplored is the relationship between officially registered churches and the communist government This study investigates the history of one such official church Moore Memorial Church in Shanghai This church was founded by American Methodist missionaries By the time of the 1949 revolution it was the largest Protestant church in East Asia running seven day a week programs As a case study of one individual church operating from an historical rather than theological perspective this study examines the experience of people at this church against the backdrop of the turbulent politics of the Mao and Deng eras It asks and seeks to answer questions such as were the people at the church pleased to see the foreign missionaries leave Were people forced to sign the so called Christian manifesto Once the church doors were closed in 1966 did worshipers go underground Why was this particular church especially chosen to be the first re opened in Shanghai in 1979 What explanations are there for its phenomenal growth since then A considerable proportion of the data for this study is drawn from Chinese language sources including interviews personal correspondence statistics internal church documents and archives many of which have never previously been published or accessed by foreign researchers The main focus of this study is on the period from 1949 to 1989 a period in which the church experienced many ups and downs restrictions and limitations The Mao era in particular remains one of the least understood and seldom written about periods in the history of Christianity in China This study therefore makes a significant contribution to our evolving understanding of the delicate balancing act between compromise co operation and compliance that categorizes church state relations in modern China

Managing the Middle-Income Transition Juzhong Zhuang, Paul Vandenberg, Yiping Huang, 2015-02-27 The growth model of the People's Republic of China PRC has been based on high investment and exports a low cost advantage and government interventions This model has successfully transformed the country from a low income to an upper middle income
