The Dark Landscape Of Modern Fiction:

The Dark Landscape of Modern Fiction Patrick Reilly, 2018-05-08 This title was first published in 2003 This text explores the dark pessimistic truth that pervades the pages of modern texts setting a theme of Dante's Inferno against the work of modern authors including Dostoyevsky Hardy Conrad Wharton Kafka Camus Waugh and Flannery O'Connor The author's thesis is that these writers exhibit a hostility towards the reader an anger that the reader should continue to be so deludedly happy when the writer has become so mortifyingly enlightened At its most characteristic Reilly demonstrates modern fiction seems to achieve a savage satisfaction in inflicting this pain to an extent that could be described as sadistic Reilly traces what he calls this punitive spirit to a character in the Inferno Vanni Fucci who suffering himself does his best to make Dante suffer too Through the study he uses the Inferno as a guide to the prevailing attitudes in modern fiction revealing a parallel between the prohibition of pity within the medieval poem and in the pages of modern texts

Kantian Antitheodicy Sami Pihlström, Sari Kivistö, 2016-11-10 This book defends antitheodicism arguing that theodicies seeking to excuse God for evil and suffering in the world fail to ethically acknowledge the victims of suffering The authors argue for this view using literary and philosophical resources commencing with Immanuel Kant's 1791 Theodicy Essay and its reading of the Book of Job Three important twentieth century antitheodist positions are explored including Jewish post-Holocaust ethical antitheodicism Wittgensteinian antitheodicism exemplified by D.Z. Phillips and pragmatist antitheodicism defended by William James The authors argue that these approaches to evil and suffering are fundamentally Kantian Literary works such as Franz Kafka's The Trial Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot and George Orwell's Nineteen Eighty-Four are examined in order to crucially advance the philosophical case for antitheodicism Modernist Fiction R.W. Stevenson, 2014-09-11 In the revised edition of this popular text Randall Stevenson has expanded re-emphasised and amended his work to make it even more relevant to today's student studying the Modernist period in literature The book covers a wide range of modernist novelists and novels and also provides an invaluable guide to key developments in the genre Stevenson has developed his text by adding a discussion of Conrad's Heart of Darkness which is now taught more regularly than Lord Jim. In addition, he takes a fresh look at the politics of the Modernists in conjunction with the politics of their texts, pointing out the drawbacks of politically progressive readings of many modernist novels. Finally, in the section on gender, Stevenson includes discussions of such significant figures as Djuna Barnes, HD, Katherine Mansfield, and Rebecca West, as well as expanding the reference to Gertrude Stein throughout. The revisions in this updated text serve to make the author's arguments sharper and allow the text to remain central to the discussion of modernism, modernity, and the novel.

Landscape in Children's Literature Jane Carroll, 2012-08-06 This book provides a new critical methodology for the study of landscapes in children's literature. Treating landscape as the integration of unchanging and irreducible physical elements or topoi, Carroll identifies and analyses four kinds of space: sacred spaces, green spaces, roadways, and lapsed spaces, that are the component elements of the physical environments of canonical British children's fantasy. Using Susan Cooper's The Dark Is Rising Sequence as the test case for this methodology, the book traces the development of the physical features and symbolic functions of landscape topoi from their earliest inception in medieval vernacular texts through to contemporary children's literature. The identification and analysis of landscape topoi synthesizes recent theories about interstitial space together with earlier morphological and topoanalytical studies, enabling the study of fictional landscapes in terms of their physical characteristics as well as in terms of their relationship with contemporary texts and historical precedents. Ultimately, by providing topoanalytical studies of other children's texts, Carroll proposes topoanalysis as a rich critical method for the study and understanding of children's literature and indicates how the findings of this approach may be expanded upon. In offering both transferable methodologies and detailed case studies, this book outlines a new approach to literary landscapes as geographical places within socio-historical contexts.

Resisting Dialogue Juan Meneses, 2019-12-24 A bold new critique of dialogue as a method of eliminating dissent. Is dialogue always the productive political and communicative tool it is widely conceived to be? Resisting Dialogue reassesses our assumptions about dialogue and, in so doing, about what a politically healthy society should look like. Juan Meneses argues that far from an unalloyed good, dialogue often serves as a subtle tool of domination, perpetuating the underlying inequalities it is intended to address. Meneses investigates how illusory dialogue, a particular dialogic encounter designed to secure consensus, is employed as an instrument that forestalls instead of fostering articulations of dissent that lead to political change. He does so through close readings of novels from the English-speaking world written in the past hundred years, from E. M. Forster's A Passage to India and Jeanette Winterson's The Passion to Indra Sinha's Animal's People, and more. Resisting Dialogue demonstrates how these novels are rhetorical exercises with real political clout, capable of restoring the radical potential of dialogue in today's globalized world. Expanding the boundaries of postpolitical theory, Meneses reveals how these works offer ways to practice disagreement against this regulatory use of dialogue and expose the pitfalls of certain other dialogic interventions in relation to some of the most prominent questions of modern history cosmopolitanism at the end of empire the dangers of rewriting the historical record the affective dimension of neoliberalism the racial and nationalist underpinnings of the war on terror and the visibility of environmental violence in the Anthropocene Ultimately Resisting Dialogue is a complex provocative critique that melding political and literary theory reveals how fiction can help confront the deployment of dialogue to preempt the emergence of dissent and thus revitalize the practice of emancipatory politics The Wounded Hero in Contemporary Fiction Susana Onega, Jean-Michel

Ganteau, 2018-04-27 The Wounded Hero in Contemporary Fiction tracks the emergence of a new type of physically and or spiritually wounded hero in contemporary fiction Editors Susana Onega and Jean Michel Ganteu bring together some of the top minds in the field to explore the paradoxical lives of these heroes that have embraced rather than overcome their suffering alienation and marginalisation as a form of self definition Contemporary Fiction Jago Morrison, 2003 A much needed introduction to the field of contemporary fiction studies Introduces key areas of debate and offers in depth discussions of the most significant texts An ideal guide for those studying contemporary fiction for the first time

Multimodal Poetics in Contemporary Fiction Thomas Mantzaris, 2024-10-24 This book explores the growing body of multimodal literary texts books that creatively experiment with the potential of design to represent narrative content Examining five North and Central American novels from the first two decades of the twenty first century this study draws attention to texts that combine verbal text writing with non verbal elements photographic images varied typography maps color etc as integral parts of their narratives Their experimentation both reconfigures the potential for print based and born digital fiction in the future and holds a mirror to past practices of design and typography that were rendered invisible or which received limited attention by authors publishers and readers By placing the five case studies and related texts within a broader history of experimentation in literature this book demonstrates how multimodal novels have changed the conceptualization of narrative content in literary texts and ushered in a new era for fiction
