Social Context of Ageing

Cheryl Russell, 2005

Ageing, Meaning and Social Structure Jan Baars, Joseph Dohmen, Amanda Grenier, Chris Phillipson, 2014-08-20 Ageing meaning and social structure is a unique book advancing critical discourse in gerontology and makes a major contribution to understanding key social and ethical dilemmas facing ageing societies It confronts and integrates approaches that have been relatively isolated from each other and interrelates two major streams of thought within critical gerontology analyses of structural issues in the context of political economy and humanistic perspectives on issues of existential meaning The chapters from a wide range of contributors focus on major issues in ageing such as autonomy agency frailty lifestyle social isolation dementia and professional challenges in social work and participatory research This volume should be valuable reading for scholars and graduate students in gerontology and humanistic studies as well as for policy makers and practitioners working in the field of ageing Ageing as a Social Challenge Maria Łuszczynska, 2021-11-29 The Introduction chapter of this book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license With a focus on the case of Poland where an ageing population poses a crucial challenge for the state's social family and gerontological policy this book explores ageing as a personal and social phenomenon considering the ways in which the experience of ageing is shaped by younger generations attitudes government support policies local initiatives undertaken help older people stay active and the ways in which the elderly themselves understand their own mortality Employing demographic philosophical legal psychological gerontological perspectives it emphasises activities that can support older adults locally or nationwide and proposes the development of a social policy and social attitudes that can facilitate changes in the social perception of ageing together with a redistribution of resources for older adults As such it will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in ageing and the lifecourse as well as those who wish to support older adults with concrete solutions and familiarize themselves with the ageing process from an individual and social perspective Social Structures, Aging, and Self-Regulation in the Elderly K. Warner Schaie, PhD, Laura L. Carstensen, PhD, 2006-07-06 This collection considers ways in which societal contexts influence aging by influencing self regulatory processes No one doubts that the social contexts in which individuals develop exert strong influence on life trajectories Those born into environments that provide high quality education supportive social relations and economic assets do better in old age than those born into environments bereft of such resources The extent of this influence however is only beginning to be revealed Recent research shows that life experiences influence basic brain structures e.g. the effect of musical training on neural organization and functions e.g. inflammatory processes and that social embeddedness may even protect against Alzheimer's disease Similarly education increasingly appears to have a real effect on neural integrity Thus societal contexts may not simply open or close doors for individuals but may influence self regulatory processes at the most basic levels of functioning Although social structures are generally seen as the independent variables that affect individual aging it is also possible to think of a lifetime development of self regulatory processes leading to behaviors in old age that can have impact on and modify societal structures Two parts of this book consider self regulation as the dependent variable asking how social contexts influence cognitive emotional and self regulatory processes The third part reverses the question treating self regulation as the independent variable and retirement and physical health as dependent variables In this part consideration is given to how the effectiveness of self regulation influences physical and economic outcomes in old age Trans and Gender Diverse Ageing in Care Contexts Michael Toze, Paul Willis, Trish Hafford-Letchfield, 2024-07-19 Gender diversity and non conformity are becoming increasingly visible within society As more trans and non binary service users come out and trans populations age practitioners and service providers working in health care social care welfare services and housing will begin to see a growing number of older gender diverse service users With contributions from trans and non binary scholars and practitioners and those with lived experience this book outlines what good care and support looks like for older trans and non binary people This book provides a range of reflective learning activities that can be used by educators policy makers and practitioners in healthcare social care public and community services to develop their knowledge and skills to ensure their practice is affirmative and inclusive

Handbook of Communication and Aging Research Jon F. Nussbaum, Justine Coupland, 2004-04-12 This second edition of the Handbook of Communication and Aging Research captures the ever changing and expanding domain of aging research Since it was first recognized that there is more to social aging than demography gerontology has needed a communication perspective Like the first edition this handbook sets out to demonstrate that aging is not only an individual process but an interactive one The study of communication can lead to an understanding of what it means to grow old We may age physiologically and chronologically but our social aging how we behave as social actors toward others and even how we align ourselves with or come to understand the signs of difference or change as we age are phenomena achieved primarily through communication experiences Synthesizing the vast amount of research that has been published on communication and aging in numerous international outlets over the last three decades the book's contributors include scholars from North America and the United Kingdom who are active researchers in the perspectives covered in their particular chapter Many of the chapters work to deny earlier images of aging as involving normative decrement to provide a picture of aging as a process of development involving positive choices and providing new opportunities A recurring theme in many chapters is that of the heterogeneity of the group of people who are variously categorized as older aged elderly or over 65 The contributors review the literature analytically in a way that reveals not only current theoretical and methodological approaches to communication and aging research but also sets the future agenda This handbook will be of great interest to scholars and researchers in gerontology developmental psychology and communication and in this updated edition will continue to play a key role in the study of communication and aging
