Salimbeni,2011-04 This study examined the perceptions of officers with colleagues who perpetrate acts of domestic violence This was a qualitative research design from a phenomenological perspective The data was gathered by the use of face to face interviews using open ended questions The data was analyzed by the use of bracketing horizontalization clusters of meanings

textural and structural descriptions and the invariant structure of the phenomena described by the study participants Upon completion of the 30 interviews the audio tapes were all transcribed and loaded in to Atlas Ti for the purpose of coding the data for the major themes A constant comparison method was used to analyze the data to help identify the similarities and differences between the study participants perceptions with the phenomena The five qualitative questions each depict a different area of experience with the phenomenon to create a holistic picture of the perceptions of the thirty participants The findings suggest that for some officers the inability to separate their police role from their civilian role may be a factor in the perpetration of domestic violence by law enforcement officers The findings also suggest that social workers may be able to play an important role in the remediation of the problem of domestic violence for those within and outside police social work settings

Handbook of Family and Marital Therapy Sharon A. Shueman, Benjamin B. Wolman, 2012-12-06 Family and marital therapies are rapidly becoming highly used methods of treatment of mental disorders and are no longer ancillary methods to individual psychotherapy The last few decades have brought about an increasing awareness of the fact that excluding organic etiology practically all mental disorders are caused fostered and or related to faulty interpersonal relations As a rule the earlier in life one is exposed to noxious factors the more severe is the damage Thus early child parents and child siblings interactions are highly relevant determinants of mental health and mental disorder Moreover parents themselves do not live in a vacuum Their marital interaction significantly contributes to their own mental health or to its decline and parent child relationships are greatly influenced by the nature of intraparental relationships Parental discord conflicts and abandonment affect the child s personality development Thus family and marital therapy is more than therapy it is an important contribution to the prevention of mental disorder The present volume is comprised of three parts The first primarily theoretical analyzes the fundamental aspects of marital and family therapy The second part describes the various therapeutic techniques and the last deals with several specific issues It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge my gratitude to my coeditor Dr George Stricker Without his thorough and devoted efforts this volume could not have come into being I am also profoundly indebted to our consulting editors Dr James Framo Dr What Trouble I Have Seen David Peterson del Mar, 2009-07-01 It was 1869 and Sarah Moses with a very black eye told her father The world will never know what trouble I have seen What she d seen was violence at the hands of her husband Does the world know any more of such things today than it did in Sarah s time Sarah it so happens lived in Oregon that Edenic state on the Pacific Coast and it is here that David Peterson del Mar centers his history of violence against wives What causes such violence Has it changed over time How does it relate to the state of society as a whole And how have women tried to stop it resist it escape it These are the questions Peterson del Mar pursues and the answers he finds are as fascinating as they are disturbing Thousands of thickly documented divorce cases from the Oregon circuit courts let us listen to voices who often go unheard These are the people who didn t keep diaries or leave autobiographies who sometimes could not write at all Here they speak of a society that quietly condoned wife beating until the spread of an ethos of self restraint in the late nineteenth century And then Peterson del Mar finds the practice increased with a vengeance with the florescence of expressive individualism during the twentieth century What Trouble I Have Seen also traces a dramatic shift in wives response to their husbands violence Settler and Native American women commonly fought abusive mates Most wives of the late nineteenth century acted more cautiously and relied on others for protection But twentieth century privatism Peterson del Mar discovers often isolated modern wives from family and neighbors casting abused women on the mercy of the police women s shelters and most important their own resources Thus a new emphasis on self determination even as it stimulated violence among men enhanced the ability of women to resist and escape violent husbands The first sustained history of violence toward wives What Trouble I Have Seen offers remarkable testimony to the impact of social trends on the most private arrangements and the resilience of women subject to a seemingly timeless crime
