Pentland, M. Powell Lawton, Andrew S. Harvey, Mary Ann McColl, 2007-05-08 Despite the fact that for most of us time is a central focus of our lives the examination of what we do with our time and why has received limited attention as a method for understanding human behavior in the social sciences Humans view and use of time shows tremendous variation including across cultures and with age lifestyle and gender For many of us a sense of time is ever present We speak of time as a commodity a resource an ally an enemy and a gift It maybe on our side on our hands with us or against us We perceive it to change speeds dragging vs flying vs standing still and lest it get away on us we attempt to harness and control it with clocks schedules and deadlines We describe our use of time in a myriad of ways we spend it save it waste it kill it give it take it and grab it The impetus for this book grew from a three day research symposium where established time use researchers from a variety of disciplines from Canada the United States Finland Australia and New Zealand gathered together to merge their knowledge and resources to collaborate in examining the relationship between human time utilization and health and well-being We gratefully acknowledge the financial support for the symposium received from the Government of Canada's Program for International Research Linkages and M Powell Lawton without whose support and encouragement this book would likely not exist Trust and Conflict Ivana Marková, Alex Gillespie, 2011-08-17 Trust and Conflict offers a fresh perspective on the problems that arise from treating trust distrust and conflict as simplified indicators
