Ecotheology and the Practice of Hope Anne Marie Dalton, Henry C. Simmons,2010-09-29 Is there any hope for a more sustainable world Can we reimagine a way of living in which the nonhuman world matters Anne Marie Dalton and Henry C Simmons claim that the ecotheology that arose during the mid twentieth century gives us reason for hope While ecotheologians acknowledge that Christianity played a significant role in creating societies in which the nonhuman world counted for very little these thinkers have refocused religion to include the natural world To borrow philosopher Charles Taylor's concept they have created a new social imaginary reimagining a better world and a different sense of what is and what should be A new mindset is emerging inspired by ecotheological texts and evident in the many diverse movements and activities that operate as if the hope imparted by ecotheology has already been realized While making this powerful argument Dalton and Simmons also provide an essential overview of key ecotheological thinkers and texts New Dictionary of Christian Ethics & Pastoral Theology David J. Atkinson, David F. Evans, Ronald J. Vos, Keith P. Wright, 2020-04-22 Because the World Matters New generations are championing responsibility for both the environment and those peoples who depend upon it in all new ways Biblical Holism and Agriculture addresses the urgent need for constructing a holistic perspective grounded in the Bible to appraise the economic social ecological environmental and spiritual impact of globalization and the unprecedented impact of powerful agricultural technologies and marketing systems The holistic biblical perspectives within reference ancient Hebrew insights about responsible freedom for keeping the land by people created in the image of God as representatives commissioned to stewardship and justice
