The Development Of Negro Religion:

The Development of Negro Religion Ruby Funchess Johnston, 1954 The History of the Negro Church Carter Godwin Woodson, 2021-04-26

In The History of the Negro Church Carter Godwin Woodson meticulously examines the evolution of African American religious institutions emphasizing their role in the broader context of social justice and civil rights. With a rich narrative that combines anecdotal evidence and rigorous scholarship, Woodson employs a historical lens to illuminate the church's multifaceted influence on African American identity and community cohesion during oppressive eras. His literary style is accessible yet profound, engaging readers with both passionate advocacy for African American history and a critical reflection on the church's evolving mission from the antebellum period through to the early 20th century.

Carter G. Woodson, known as the Father of Black History, was a pioneering African American historian and educator who founded Black History Month. His commitment to documenting Black history stemmed from his personal experiences of racial discrimination and the neglect of African American contributions in academia. Influenced by the socio-political context of his time, Woodson sought to reclaim the narrative surrounding the African American experience, establishing the importance of the Negro Church as not merely a religious institution but as a cornerstone of resistance and empowerment against systemic oppression.

This essential work is recommended for scholars, students, and readers interested in understanding the profound intersections of faith, culture, and social justice within African American history. Woodson's nuanced exploration invites contemplation on the lasting impacts of religion within marginalized communities, making it a pivotal text for those who wish to delve deeper into the complexities of American religious life and the African American experience.

In this enriched edition, we have carefully created added value for your reading experience. A succinct Introduction situates the work's timeless appeal and themes. The Synopsis outlines the central plot, highlighting key developments without spoiling critical twists. Political Process and the Development of Black Insurgency, 1930-1970 Doug McAdam, 1982

In this classic work of sociology, Doug McAdam presents a political process model that explains the rise and decline of the Black protest movement in the United States. Moving from theoretical concerns to empirical analysis, he focuses on the crucial role of three institutions that foster protest: Black churches, Black colleges, and Southern chapters of the NAACP. He concludes that political opportunities, a heightened sense of political efficacy, and the development of these three institutions played a central role in shaping the civil rights movement. In his new introduction, McAdam revisits the civil rights struggle in light of

Wilmore,1998 Since its first publication 25 years ago Black Religion and Black Radicalism has established itself as the classic treatment of African American religious history Wilmore shows to what extent the history of African Americans can be told in terms of religion and to what extent this religious history has been inseparably bound to the struggle for freedom and justice From the story of the slave rebellions and emancipation to the rise of Black nationalism and the freedom struggles of recent times up through the development of Black womanist and Afrocentric theologies Wilmore offers an essential interpretation of African American religious history The History of the Negro Church Carter Woodson,2018-02-03 The importance of the church in the life of the Negro justifies the publication of this brief account of the development of the institution For many years the various denominations have been writing treatises bearing on their own particular work but hitherto there has been no effort to study the achievements of all of these groups as parts of the same institution and to show the evolution of it from the earliest period to the present time This is the objective of this volume Whether or not the author has done this task well is a question which the public must decide This work does not represent what he desired to make it Many facts of the past could not be obtained for the reason that several denominations have failed to keep records and facts known to persons now active in the church could not be collected because of indifference or the failure to understand the motives of the author Not a few church officers and ministers however gladly cooperated with the author in giving and seeking information concerning their denominations Among these were Mr Charles H Wesley Prof J A Booker and Dr Walter H Brooks For their valuable assistance the author feels deeply grateful Carter G Woodson The Religious Development of the Negro in Virginia Joseph
