The Diary Of A Church Mouse

John Betjeman

The Diary Of A Church Mouse:

The Diary of a Church Mouse Oakley, Graham, 1989 The Diary of a Church Mouse Graham Oakley, 1987 Humphrey chronicles a year's adventures in and around Wortlethorpe Church The Christmas Diary of a Church Mouse! Ann Worrall, Edwin Motmorency, 2011 John Betjeman Greg Morse, 2012 John Betjeman was undoubtedly the most popular Poet Laureate since Tennyson But beneath the thoroughly modern window on Britain that he opened during his lifetime lay the influence of his nineteenth century forbears This book explores his identity through such Victorianism via the verse of that period but also its architecture religious faith and more importantly religious doubt It was nevertheless a process which took time In the 1930s Betjeman's work was tinted with modernism and traditionalism He found Victorian buildings funny and wrote much in praise of the Bauhaus style even though his early poetry was peppered with Victorian references This leaning was incorporated into a greater sense of purpose during World War 2 when he transformed himself from precious humorist into propagandist The resulting sense of cohesion grew when the dangers of post war urban redevelopment heightened the need to critique the present via the poetics of the past a mood which continued up to and beyond his gaining the Laureateship in 1972 This duty proved to be a millstone so the official poems are thus explored by the author more fully than hitherto The conclusion of looks back to Betjeman's 1960 verse autobiography Summoned by Bells which is seen as the apogee of his achievement and a snapshot of his identity Included here is the first critical appreciation of the lyrics embodied within the text which are taken as a map of the young poet's literary growth Larkin's 1959 question What exactly is Betjeman then leads to a final appraisal of his originality as evidenced by his glances towards postmodernism feminism and post colonialism The fact is that Betjeman never quite fits in anywhere He is always a square peg in a round hole or a round peg in a square hole often for the sheer enjoyment of so being In a sense his desire to be as non conformist as a Quaker meeting house makes him a radical rather than the reactionary that his interests imply He was a champion of beauty and the British Isles and clearly did much to make us see the worth of our Victorian forebears Greg Morse's book highlights this important facet of his work John Betjeman William S. Peterson, 2006 Sir John Betjeman 1906 1984 Poet Laureate was probably the most widely read English poet of the twentieth century Because of his frequent appearances on radio and television and his fervent devotion to the preservation of England's architectural heritage his face and voice became familiar to millions Few other poets of any century have had such a powerful influence on their contemporaries This bibliography lists and describes all of his known writings including his own books ephemera contributions to periodicals and to books by others lectures and radio and television programmes Other categories such as editorships music settings and dramatic adaptations of his poems recordings and interviews are also included as well as a section devoted to writings about him Manuscripts and drafts of all his works are described in detail This enormous body of material is thoroughly indexed cross referenced and in most cases annotated Now at last the activities of this remarkable man both a poet and a cultural phenomenon can be seen in their full breadth and complexity Poems in the Porch Kevin J. Gardner, 2008-09-18 Between 1953-57 John Betjeman read a series of poems on The Faith in the West program airing on the BBC's West of England Home Service. This series called Poems in the Porch was so popular that Betjeman received constant requests to publish the poems. Although he deprecatingly referred to the poems as mere verses, Betjeman at last capitulated to the public. The result was a slim volume of six poems entitled Poems in the Porch. What few people now realize is that Betjeman read at least 20 original poems on the radio in this series, perhaps even more, although owing to the haphazard records of both the BBC and Betjeman himself, it is impossible to reconstruct with complete accuracy the history of this series. Kevin Gardner has been able to identify and collect 26 of these poems and has written a fascinating introductory essay recounting the story of Betjeman as a radio poet and discussing the artistry of these poems. Most have never been published and currently exist only in manuscript. We know for certain of 20 occasions when Betjeman read his poems on the Faith in the West program, and of these we know 16 specific titles. Despite the gap between the BBC records on the one hand and the printed and manuscript texts on the other, Gardner has been able to construct a relatively reliable edition of Betjeman's Poems in the Porch. This book will cause a radical reassessment of his canon and will create great waves in the Betjeman community.
