

Waterfall

by Lauris Dorothy Edmond

I do not ask for youth, nor for delay in the rising of time's irreversible river that takes the jewelled arc of the waterfall in which I glimpse, minute by glinting minute, all that I have and all I am always losing as sunlight lights each drop fast, fast falling.

I do not dream that you, young again, might come to me darkly in love's green darkness where the dust of the bracken spices the air moss, crushed, gives out an astringent sweetness and water holds our reflections motionless, as if for ever.

It is enough now to come into a room and find the kindness we have for each other – calling it love – in eyes that are shrewd but trustful still, face chastened by years of careful judgement; to sit in the afternoons in mild conversation, without nostalgia.

But when you leave me, with your jauntiness sinewed by resolution more than strength – suddenly then I love you with a quick intensity, remembering that water, however luminous and grand, falls fast and only once to the dark pool below.

Her career has been extraordinarily compressed. Born in 1924, she did not publish her first book until 1975. Since then eleven major collections have appeared plus an autobiography in three volumes. Her Selected Poems won the Commonwealth Poetry Prize in 1985. Bloodaxe published her New Selected Poems in 1992. The voice in this new collection is full of affirmation and pleasure. For Lauris Edmond, being a woman over 70 is an invigorating experience, especially at the end of a century that has so fundamentally changed women's lives. These new poems show an awareness of loss, of a complete and equivocal grief set against the vivid savouring of a fragile but often luminous present. Hers is a mature voice, still resilient, even buoyant, yet deeply serious in its reactions on the need to affirm our humanity in the face of death and denial. New and Selected Poems Lauris Dorothy Edmond, 1991 Scenes from a Small City Lauris Edmond, 1994 Lauris Edmond Lauris Dorothy Edmond, 2001 This edition of my autobiography is the same in essentials as the three volume version Hot October Bonfires in the rain and The quick world. It is however somewhat reduced in length and the photographs have been omitted. Authors note.
