The Political Economy Of Urban Transportation:

The Political Economy of Urban Transportation Delbert A. Taebel, James V. Cornehl, 1977 National university publications er Means of Movement J. Allen Whitt, Glenn Yago, 1983 The Political Economy of Urban Transportation Delbert A. Taebel, James V. Cornehl, 1977 National university publications er The Political Economy of Urban Transport System Choice Harris Selod, 2004 The Economics of Urban Transportation Kenneth A. Small, Erik T. Verhoef, Robin Lindsey, 2024-06-10 This new edition of the seminal textbook The Economics of Urban Transportation incorporates the latest research affecting the design implementation pricing and control of transport systems in towns and cities The book offers an economic framework for understanding the societal impacts and policy implications of many factors including congestion traffic safety climate change air quality COVID 19 and newly important developments such as ride hailing services electric vehicles and autonomous vehicles Rigorous in approach and making use of real world data and econometric techniques the third edition features a new chapter on the special challenges of managing the energy that powers transportation systems It provides fully updated coverage of well known topics and a rigorous treatment of new ones All of the basic topics needed to apply economics to urban transportation are included Forecasting demand for transportation services under various conditions Measuring costs including those incurred by users and incorporating two new tools to describe congestion in dense urban areas Setting prices under practical constraints Evaluating infrastructure investments Understanding how private and public sectors interact to provide services Written by three of the field s leading researchers The Economics of Urban Transportation is essential reading for students researchers and practicing professionals in transportation economics planning engineering or related disciplines With a focus on workable models that can be adapted to future needs it provides tools for a rapidly changing world Mobilizing City-regional Urbanization Jean-Paul Addie, 2013 Studies of cities and urbanization are confronted with significant theoretical and methodological challenges as the urban question is reposed at the city regional scale Normative understandings of city regions as sites of economic innovation and distinct political actors on the world stage belie the complex processes underlying their production This has significant implications for social justice and political practice This dissertation engages the challenges of city regional urbanization through a critical comparative analysis of urban transportation institutions and infrastructure in the Chicago and Toronto city regions Focusing on long term historical and spatial structures the study demonstrates how multiscale political economic and social processes crystallize in specific urban formations and in turn how processes of urbanization shape urban governance and practices of everyday life The dissertation develops three central theoretical innovations First it introduces a geographical historical materialist comparative framework to examine the contingent evolution of city regional formations in space and across time using a cross national perspective Second it reframes urban transportation as a key realm of political economy inquiry redressing the limitations of traditional transportation geography and the poststructural approaches which dominate urban infrastructures literature Third it incorporates diverse urban suburban and post suburban spaces within an overarching theorization of city regional urbanization as an expression of centripetal and centrifugal forces Qualitative methods are used to uncover and analyze socially entangled and geographically disparate urban relations The empirical analysis reveals that the prioritization of particular scales of mobility spurs the emergence of new city regional topologies which do not neatly align with territorially defined forms of state space Strategies of regionalization are as likely to open new fissures in city regional space as they are to fuse collective regional agency The convergences and divergences witnessed between the Chicago and Toronto city regions illustrate the place specific path dependent properties of institutional and infrastructure fixes that highlight the importance of historically and geographically sensitive comparative research The dissertation s dialectical and comparative contributions open the city region as a multifaceted multiscalar and multilayered object of analysis It concludes by outlining how the study s dialectical approach to city regional urbanization can inform debates on urban transformation and social change

The Urban Political Economy and Ecology of Automobility Alan Walks, 2014-07-25 Just how resilient are our urban societies to social energy environmental and or financial shocks and how does this vary among cities and nations Can our cities be made more sustainable and can environmental economic and social collapse be staved off through changes in urban form and travel behaviour How might rising indebtedness and the recent series of financial crises be related to automobile dependence and patterns of urban automobile use To what extent does the system and economy of automobility factor in the production of urban socio spatial inequalities and how might these inequalities in mobility be understood and measured What can we learn from the politics of mobility and social movements within cities What is the role of automobility and auto dependence in differentiating groups both within cities and rural areas and among transnational migrants moving across international borders These are just some of the questions this book addresses This volume provides a holistic and reflexive account of the role played by automobility in producing reproducing and differentiating social economic and political life in the contemporary city as well as the role played by the city in producing and reproducing auto mobile inequalities The first section titled Driving Vulnerability deals with issues of global importance related to economic social financial and environmental sustainability and resilience and socialization The second section Driving Inequality is concerned with understanding the role played by automobility in producing urban socio spatial inequalities including those rooted in accessibility to work migration status and ethnic concentration and new measures of mobility based inequality derived from the concept of effective speed The third section titled Driving Politics explores the politics of mobility in particular places with an eye to demonstrating both the relevance of the politics of mobility for influencing and reinforcing actually existing neoliberalisms and the kinds of politics that might allow for reform or restructuring of the auto mobile city into one that is more socially politically and environmentally just In the conclusion to the book Walks draws on the findings of the other chapters to comment on the relationship between automobility neoliberalism and citizenship and to lay out strategies for dealing with the urban car system The Political Economy of Urban Mass Transportation William Craig Jeffery, 1973 Handbook on Transport Pricing and Financing Alejandro Tirachini, Daniel Hörcher, Erik T. Verhoef, 2023-05-09 Taking a comprehensive approach to two central closely intertwined themes in the field of transport economics this illuminating Handbook recognizes the critical socioeconomic importance of transport pricing and financing Urban Transport Environment and Equity Eduardo Alcantara Vasconcellos, 2014-05-01 Traditional transport planning has generated transport systems that propagate an unfair distribution of accessibility and have environmental and safety issues This book highlights the importance of social and political aspects of transport policy and provides a methodology to support this approach It emphasizes the importance of co ordinating urban transport and traffic planning and addresses the major challenge of modifying the building and use of roads The author makes suggestions for innovative and radical new measures towards an equitable and sustainable urban environment
