Neoliberalizing Spaces in the Philippines Arnisson Andre Ortega, 2016-09-09. Amidst the recent global financial crisis and housing busts in various countries, the Philippines booming housing industry has been heralded as Southeast Asia's hottest real estate hub and the saving grace of a supposedly resilient Philippine economy. This growth has been fueled by demand from balikbayan returnee Overseas Filipinos and has facilitated the rise of gated suburban communities in Manila's sprawling peri-urban fringe. But as the Filipino dreams of successful balikbayans are built inside these new gated residential developments, the lives of marginalized populations living in these spaces have been upended and thrown into turmoil as they face threats of expulsion. Based on almost four years of research, this book examines the tumultuous geographies of neoliberalization that link suburbanization, transnational mobilities, and accumulation by dispossession. Through an accounting of real estate and new suburban landscapes, it tells of a Filipino transnationalism that engenders a market-based and privatized suburban political economy that reworks socio-spatial relations and class dynamics. In presenting the literal and discursive transformations of spaces in Manila's peri-urban fringe, the book details life inside new gated suburban communities and discusses the everyday geographies of privileged new property owners, mainly comprised of balikbayan families, and exposes the contradictions of gated suburban life from resistance to Home Owner Association rules to alienating feelings of loss. It also reveals the darker side of the property boom by mapping the volatile spaces of the Philippines' surplus populations comprised of the landless farmers, informal settler residents, and indigenous peoples. To make way for gated communities and other profitable developments in the peri-urban region, marginalized residents are systematically dispossessed and displaced while concomitantly offered relocation to isolated socialized housing projects, the last frontier for real estate accumulation. These compelling accounts illustrate how the territorial embeddedness of neoliberalization in the Philippines entails the consolidation of capital by political-economic elites and privatization of residential space for an idealized transnational property clientele. More than ever as the Philippines is being reshaped by diaspora and accumulation by dispossession, the contemporary moment is a critical time to reflect on what it truly means to be a nation.

Japanese Pan-Asianism and the Philippines from the Late Nineteenth Century to the End of World War II Sven Matthiessen, 2015-10-20. In Japanese Pan-Asianism and the Philippines from the Late 19th Century to the End of World War II, Sven Matthiessen examines the development of Japanese Pan-Asianism and the perception of the Philippines within this ideology. Due to the archipelago's previous colonisation by Spain and the US, the Philippines was a special case among the Japanese-occupied territories during the war. Matthiessen convincingly proves that the widespread pro Americanism among the Philippine population made it impossible for Japanese administrators to implement a pan Asianist ideology that centred on a return to Asian values The expectation among some Japanese Pan Asianists that going to the Philippines was like coming home was never fulfilled Amazons of the Huk Rebellion Vina A. Lanzona,2009-04-22 Labeled Amazons by the national press women played a central role in the Huk rebellion one of the most significant peasant based revolutions in modern Philippine history Imagine Otherwise Kandice Chuh,2003-04-17 A critical examination of what constitutes the varied positions grouped together as Asian American seen in relation to both American and transnational forces
