

An imaginary museum quarter: towards cultural and urban renewal

Nina Ugljen-Ademović and Senka Ibrišimbegović

"Above all, architecture is resistance against the system, against physical globalisation that does not respect the genius loci, the spirit of places, the context, the differences between people..."

Jean Nouvel¹

Introduction

The contemporary urban transformations we are witnessing show a considerable degree of diversity conditioned, among other things, by perceptions and attitudes towards the development of cultural identity and culture in general. Constant, turbulent, global changes are accelerating the pace of life, often at odds with our ability to adapt and follow them.

The pandemic has been an additional global preoccupation, lasting for more than two years, highlighting all the shortcomings of urban development taking place in the absence of specific, professionally-driven planning. The issue of the lack of public spaces within the urban environment, which is now even more at risk and profoundly changing, has also surfaced.

We are thus obliged today to evaluate our previous approaches and think about the future of space from these new positions, not only considering the technological challenges but also the various unpredictable situations that are becoming a reality.

twentieth century a literary period Stevenson shows to be far more imaginative and exciting than has yet been recognised Lucid accessible and engaging this volume of the Oxford English Literary History presents a unique illumination of its age one we have lived through but are only just beginning to understand The first full account of its period it will set the agenda for discussion of late twentieth century literature for many years to come The Poetry of Derek Mahon Hugh Haughton,2010-10-21 Derek Mahon is one of the leading poets of his time both in Ireland and beyond famously offering a perspective that is displaced from as much as grounded in his native country From prodigious beginnings to prolific maturity he has been through thick and thin through troubled times and other a writer profoundly committed to the art of poetry and the craft of making verse He has also been no less a committed reviser of his work believing the poem to be more than a record in verse but a work of art never finished This virtuoso study by Hugh Haughton provides the most comprehensive account imaginable of Mahon s oeuvre Haughton s brilliant writing always serves and illuminates the poetry yielding extraordinary insights on almost every page The poetry its revisions and reception are the subject here but so thorough is the approach that what is offered also amounts indirectly to an intellectual biography of the poet and with it an account of Northern Irish poetry vital to our understanding of the times The Poetic Economists of England and Ireland

1912-2000 D. Johnston,2001-08-08 Although modern English and Irish poetry arises from the different cultures of the two countries these poets have shared throughout this century the same editors and publishers competed for the same prizes and been judged ostensibly by the same standards This book examines contexts for these exchanges over four decades tracing the lineages of Yeats and Hardy from their meeting in 1912 through WWI the 30s the 60s and the 90s to see what influences and ideas are exchanged and how poetic value accrues William Carlos Williams Crane Doyle,2013-11-05 This set comprises of 40 volumes covering nineteenth and twentieth century European and American authors These volumes will be available as a complete set mini boxed sets by theme or as individual volumes This second set compliments the first 68 volume set of Critical Heritage published by Routledge in October 1995 The New Modernist Novel Elizabeth

Pender,2024-09-30 Considers relationships between modernist literature and literary criticism and argues that new modernist fiction can bring with it new modes of reading Considers how close reading may change as the study of modernism changes to include recently recovered fiction Asks what reading meant for selected critics of modernist literature around 1930 and around 1960 Offers readings of three new modernist novels Djuna Barnes s Nightwood John Rodker s Adolphe 1920 and Mina Loy s Insel Considers key cultural moments of the novels composition and reception Extends the questions about reading raised by these novels to Samuel Beckett s Comment c est How It Is and Jean Rhys s short stories Since the late twentieth century new understandings of modernism have come with new attention to a range of writers Yet if the academic study of modernism took shape around an older narrower selection of writers and works how can its modes of reading be relevant to newly recovered modernist writing This book considers how close reading may change as the subjects of literary study change Elizabeth Pender asks what reading meant for critics of modernist literature around 1930 and around 1960 and then what close reading might look like now for three new modernist novels Djuna Barnes's Nightwood John Rodker's Adolphe 1920 and Mina Loy's Insel tend to resist some of the strategies of reading that helped construct a narrowed modernist canon at mid century such as the pursuit of coherence These novels offer new thinking about the temporality of reading style and the ethics of narration Reading these novels now suggests that other new modernist fiction too may require revisions to vocabularies with which modernist literature has sometimes been read
