Supervenience New Essays:

Supervenience Elias E. Savellos, Umit D. Yalcin, 2007-08-16 Supervenience is one of the hot discoveries of recent analytic philosophy and this collection of new essays on the topic represents a state of the art examination of it and its application to major areas of philosophy. Hitherto a serious student had to track down scattered articles in journals on the subject. Now that reader can find some of the finest philosophers writing on this topic in a comprehensive integrated anthology.

Physicalism and the Mind Robert Francescotti, 2014-09-18 This book addresses a tightly knit cluster of questions in the philosophy of mind. There is the question: Are mental properties identical with physical properties? An affirmative answer would seem to secure the truth of physicalism regarding the mind, i.e. the belief that all mental phenomena obtain solely in virtue of physical phenomena. If the answer is negative then the question arises: Can this solely in virtue of relation be understood as some kind of dependence short of identity? And answering this requires answering two further questions: Exactly what sort of dependence on the physical does physicalism require and what is needed for a property or phenomenon to qualify as physical? It is argued that multiple realizability still provides irresistible proof especially with the possibility of immaterial realizers that mental properties are not identical with any properties of physics, chemistry or biology. After refuting various attempts to formulate nonreductive physicalism with the notion of realization a new definition of physicalism is offered. This definition shows how it could be that the mental depends solely on the physical even if mental properties are not identical with those of the natural sciences. Yet it is also argued that the sort of psychophysical dependence described is robust enough that if it were to obtain then in a plausible and robust sense of physical mental properties would still qualify as physical properties.

The Blackwell Guide to Philosophy of Mind Stephen P. Stich, Ted A. Warfield, 2008-04-15 Comprising a series of specially commissioned chapters by leading scholars this comprehensive volume presents an up to date survey of the central themes in the philosophy of mind. It leads the reader through a broad range of topics including Artificial Intelligence, Consciousness, Dualism, Emotions, Folk Psychology, Free Will, Individualism, Personal Identity and The Mind-Body Problem. Provides a state of the art overview of philosophy of mind. Contains 16 newly commissioned articles all of which are written by internationally distinguished scholars. Each chapter reviews a central issue, examines the current state of the discipline with respect to the topic and discusses possible futures of the field. Provides a solid foundation for further study.

Consciousness Josh Weisberg, David Rosenthal, 2022-07-06 CONSCIOUSNESS: Consciousness is a thought provoking collection of classic and contemporary philosophical literature on consciousness bringing together influential scholarship by seminal thinkers and the work of emerging voices who reflect the diversity of the field. Editors Josh Weisberg and David Rosenthal have selected discussions that animate modern debates and connect consciousness to broader philosophical topics. Providing an expansive view of the philosophical landscape of consciousness studies this carefully calibrated reader features classic work from the past four decades by seminal thinkers such as Thomas

Nagel David Lewis Ned Block Gilbert Harman and Daniel Dennett as well as important recent work from David Chalmers Fiona Macperson Joseph Levine Kathleen Akins and other contemporary philosophers Divided into five parts Consciousness explores the nature of consciousness consciousness and knowledge qualitative consciousness and theories of consciousness A final section on agency and physicalism includes work by Galen Strawson and a previously unpublished article by Myrto Mylopoulos Philosophically challenging yet accessible to students Consciousness is an ideal reader for many undergraduate and graduate courses on consciousness or philosophy of mind as well as a useful supplementary text for general classes in philosophy and a valuable reference text for philosophers of mind cognitive scientists and psychologists Generative

Mechanisms Transforming the Social Order Margaret S. Archer, 2015-02-18 This volume examines how generative mechanisms emerge in the social order and their consequences It does so in the light of finding answers to the general question posed in this book series Will Late Modernity be replaced by a social formation that could be called Morphogenic Society This volume clarifies what a generative mechanism is to achieve a better understanding of their social origins and to delineate in what way such mechanisms exert effects within a current social formation either stabilizing it or leading to changes potentially replacing it The book explores questions about conjuncture convergence and countervailing effects of morphogenetic mechanisms in order to assess their impact Simultaneously it looks at how products of positive feedback intertwine with the results of morphostatic negative feedback This process also requires clarification especially about the conditions under which morphostasis prevails over morphogenesis and vice versa It raises the issue as to whether their co existence can be other than short lived The volume addresses whether or not there also is a process of morpho necrosis i e the ultimate demise of certain morphostatic mechanisms such that they cannot recover The book concludes that not only are generative mechanisms required to explain associations between variables involved in the replacement of Late Modernity by Morphogenic Society but they are also robust enough to account for cases and times when such variables show no significant correlations

Embodied Souls, Ensouled Bodies Marc Cortez, 2008-11-18 An exploration of the relationship between Christology and theological anthropology through the lens of Karl Barth's theology and the contemporary philosophy of mind debate

Understanding Physicalism Gregor M. Hörzer, 2020-08-10 Physicalism is a metaphysical thesis easily presented in slogan form there is nothing over and above the physical but notoriously difficult to formulate precisely Understanding physicalism combines insights from contemporary philosophy of mind and metaphysics to present a new account of physical properties and metaphysical dependence and on this foundation develop a more rigorous and illuminating formulation of the thesis of physicalism

Naturally Minded Simon Bowes, 2023-08-12 This book is an empirically informed investigation of the philosophical problem of mental causation and a philosophical investigation of the status of cognitive scientific generalisations If there are mental causes which can be classified in a way useful for predicting and explaining then they are natural kinds First we develop an account of natural kinds that accommodates the cognitive Second we show how statements using these are not reducible to statements about physical kinds involving biological and social facts Finally Virtual Machine Functionalism is defended as the correct account of the relationship between cognition and the material world The Ant Trap Brian Epstein, 2015-03-03 We live in a world of crowds and corporations artworks and artifacts legislatures and languages money and markets These are all social objects they are made at least in part by people and by communities But what exactly are these things How are they made and what is the role of people in making them In The Ant Trap Brian Epstein rewrites our understanding of the nature of the social world and the foundations of the social sciences Epstein explains and challenges the three prevailing traditions about how the social world is made One tradition takes the social world to be built out of people much as traffic is built out of cars A second tradition also takes people to be the building blocks of the social world but focuses on thoughts and attitudes we have toward one another And a third tradition takes the social world to be a collective projection onto the physical world Epstein shows that these share critical flaws Most fundamentally all three traditions overestimate the role of people in building the social world they are overly anthropocentric Epstein starts from scratch bringing the resources of contemporary metaphysics to bear In the place of traditional theories he introduces a model based on a new distinction between the grounds and the anchors of social facts Epstein illustrates the model with a study of the nature of law and shows how to interpret the prevailing traditions about the social world Then he turns to social groups and to what it means for a group to take an action or have an intention Contrary to the overwhelming consensus these often depend on more than the actions and intentions of group members Did My Neurons Make Me Do It? Nancey Murphy, Warren S. Brown, 2007-06-14 If humans are purely physical and if it is the brain that does the work formerly assigned to the mind or soul then how can it fail to be the case that all of our thoughts and actions are determined by the laws of neurobiology If this is the case then free will moral responsibility and indeed reason itself would appear to be in jeopardy Nancey Murphy and Warren S Brown here defend a non reductive version of physicalism whereby humans are sometimes the authors of their own thoughts and actions Did My Neurons Make Me Do It brings together insights from both philosophy and the cognitive neurosciences to defeat neurobiological reductionism One resource is a post Cartesian account of mind as essentially embodied and constituted by action feedback evaluation action loops in the environment and scaffolded by cultural resources Another is a non mysterious account of downward mental causation explained in terms of a complex higher order system exercising constraints on lower level causal processes These resources are intrinsically related the embeddedness of brain events in action feedback loops is the key to their mentality and those broader systems have causal effects on the brain itself With these resources Murphy and Brown take on two problems in philosophy of mind a response to the charges that physicalists cannot account for the meaningfulness of language nor the causal efficacy of the mental qua mental Solutions to these problems are a prerequisite to addressing the central problem of the book how can biological organisms be free and morally responsible The authors argue that the free will problem is badly framed if it is put in terms of neurobiological determinism the real issue is neurobiological reductionism If it is indeed possible to make sense of the notion of downward causation then the relevant question is whether humans exert downward causation over some of their own parts and processes If all organisms do this to some extent what needs to be added to this animalian flexibility to constitute free and responsible action The keys are sophisticated language and hierarchically ordered cognitive processes allowing mature humans to evaluate their own actions motives goals and rational and moral principles
