citation once they have started writing it Virtually all of them have some process for voiding a citation issued in error once the citation has been issued but this process is carefully monitored to prevent abuse Absent a monitored process the system is easily manipulated Someone makes a call to a person in the police department who has influence and that person contacts the officer who issued the ticket They persuade the officer to void the ticket If the voided ticket appears to be correct in format e g license plate matches the vehicle description violation is appropriate for that location etc then whoever is in charge of reviewing the voided citations is supposed to follow up and find out if the citation was voided for a legitimate reason or as a favor to someone Most of the time when the issuing officer has started the citation form and many of them are generated via handheld computer these days and the violator runs up and asks them to stop the violation is legitimate and the officer has already looked around for the driver of the vehicle The typical complaint is but I was just gone for a minute which may or may not be true In any event there is seldom a provision in the law for parking there for a minute you aren't supposed to park there at all So in short it's usually true that the officer is not supposed to stop once they have begun issuing the citation Buy the book to read more Criminology Explains Police Violence Philip Matthew Stinson Sr.,2020-01-21

When Harvard trained sociologist Peter Moskos left the classroom to become a cop in Baltimore's Eastern District he was thrust deep into police culture and the ways of the street the nerve rattling patrols the thriving drug corners and a world of poverty and violence that outsiders never see In Cop in the Hood Moskos reveals the truths he learned on the midnight shift Through Moskos's eyes we see police academy graduates unprepared for the realities of the street success measured by number of arrests and the ultimate failure of the war on drugs In addition to telling an explosive insider's story of what it is really like to be a police officer he makes a passionate argument for drug legalization as the only realistic way to end drug violence and let cops once again protect and serve In a new afterword Moskos describes the many benefits of foot patrol or as he calls it policing green Community Policing Michael Palmiotto,2011-02-01

This textbook discusses the role of community oriented policing including the police image public expectations ethics in law enforcement community wellness civilian review boards and what the community can do to help decrease crime rates In addition the author covers basic interpersonal skills and how these might vary according to the race sex age and socioeconomic group with which the officer is interacting Finally students learn how to initiate new programs in a community from the planning process and community involvement to dealing with management and evaluating program success
