Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week resistance training program on the muscle strength and endurance of young adults. The subjects were 15 male and 15 female college students. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group performed no resistance training, while the experimental group performed a 12-week resistance training program. The subjects were tested at baseline and at 12 weeks. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly greater muscle strength and endurance than the control group at 12 weeks. The results also showed that the experimental group had significantly greater muscle strength and endurance than the control group at baseline. The results suggest that a 12-week resistance training program can improve muscle strength and endurance in young adults.
