Indigenous STEM Education Pauline W. U. Chinn, Sharon Nelson-Barber, 2023-07-25 This book builds upon the range of Indigenous theory and research found in Volume I and applies these learnings to interventions in schools communities teacher education and professional development It is part of a two volume set addresses a growing recognition that interdisciplinary cross cultural and cross hybrid learning is needed to foster scientific and cultural understandings and move STEM learning toward more just and sustainable futures for all learners Authors working in Eurocentric settings of schools and colleges whether in the continental or island United States Canada Thailand Taiwan or Chuuk utilize storytelling place language and experiential learning to engage students in meaningful highly contextualized study that honors ancestral knowledge and practices They recognize that their disciplines have been structured and colonized by Eurocentric American frameworks that lack storied ethical contexts developed through living sustainably in particular places Recognizing that students seeking to enter STEM majors and careers now must be knowledgeable in multiple ways authors describe innovative ways to immerse precollege learners as well as developing and practicing teachers in settings that intersect culture place heritage language and praxis that enable Indigenous and local knowledge to become central to learning Twenty first century technologies of distance learning digital story telling and mapping technologies now enable formerly marginalized minoritized groups to share their worldviews and systems of knowledge The Self Illusion

Bruce Hood,2012-05-23 Most of us believe that we are unique and coherent individuals but are we The idea of a self has existed ever since humans began to live in groups and become sociable Those who embrace the self as an individual in the West or a member of the group in the East feel fulfilled and purposeful This experience seems incredibly real but a wealth of recent scientific evidence reveals that this notion of the independent coherent self is an illusion it is not what it seems Reality as we perceive it is not something that objectively exists but something that our brains construct from moment to moment interpreting summarizing and substituting information along the way Like a science fiction movie we are living in a matrix that is our mind In The Self Illusion Dr Bruce Hood reveals how the self emerges during childhood and how the architecture of the developing brain enables us to become social animals dependent on each other He explains that self is the product of our relationships and interactions with others and it exists only in our brains The author argues however that though the self is an illusion it is one that humans cannot live without But things are changing as our technology develops and shapes society The social bonds and relationships that used to take time and effort to form are now undergoing a revolution as we start to put our self online Social networking activities such as blogging Facebook Linkedin and Twitter threaten to change the way we behave Social networking is fast becoming socialization on steroids The speed and ease at which we can form alliances and relationships is outstripping the same selection processes that shaped our self prior to the internet era This book ventures into uncharted territory to explain how the idea of the self will never be the same again in the online social world
