The Heart of Princess Osra Anthony Hope, 2016-03-07 1895 Hope was a barrister who gave up the law after realizing success with his novel The Prisoner of Zenda. The book begins with the impatient cry being heard through all the narrow gloomy street where the old richly carved house fronts bowed to meet one another and left for the eyes only a bare glimpse of blue. It was men said the oldest street in Streilsau even as the sign of the Silver Ship was the oldest sign known to exist in the city. For when Aaron Lazarus the Jew came there seventy years before he had been the tenth man in unbroken line that took up the business and now Stephen Nados his apprentice and successor was the eleventh. Old Lazarus had made a great business of it and had spent his savings in buying up the better part of the street but since Jews then might hold no property in Streilsau pg 2 he had taken all the deeds in the name of Stephen Nados and when he came to die being unable to carry his houses or his money with him having no kindred and caring not a straw for any man or woman alive save Stephen he bade Stephen let the deeds be and with a last curse against the Christians of whom Stephen was one and a devout one he kissed the young man and turned his face to the wall and died. The heart of women is as it would seem a strange thing for the Princess Osra hearing what the smith had said and learning that he had fallen passionately in love with her on the mere sight of her beauty pg 19 suddenly felt a tenderness for him and a greater admiration than she had entertained before and although she harboured no absurd idea of listening to his madness or of doing anything in the world but laugh at it as it deserved yet there came on her a strange dislike of the project that she had herself in sport suggested namely that the smith should be married immediately to the Countess Hilda by the Lord Bishop of Modenstein. About Anthony Hope the Author Hope was born in Clapton then on the edge of London where his father the Reverend Edward Connerford Hawkins was headmaster of St John's Foundational School for the Sons of Poor Clergy which soon moved to Leatherhead in Surrey and is now St John's School. He went on a publicity tour of the United States in late 1897 during which he impressed a New York Times reporter as being somewhat like Rudolf Rassendyll a well dressed Englishman with a hearty laugh a soldierly attitude a dry sense of humour quiet easy manners and an air of shrewdness.
