Women and Confucian Cultures in Premodern China, Korea, and Japan Dorothy Ko,JaHyun Kim Haboush,Joan Piggott,2003-08-28 Representing an unprecedented collaboration among international scholars from Asia Europe and the United States this volume rewrites the history of East Asia by rethinking the contentious relationship between Confucianism and women The authors discuss the absence of women in the Confucian canonical tradition and examine the presence of women in politics family education and art in premodern China Korea and Japan What emerges is a concept of Confucianism that is dynamic instead of monolithic in shaping the cultures of East Asian societies As teachers mothers writers and rulers women were active agents in this process Neither rebels nor victims these women embraced aspects of official norms while resisting others The essays present a powerful image of what it meant to be female and to live a woman's life in a variety of social settings and historical circumstances Challenging the conventional notion of Confucianism as an oppressive tradition that victimized women this provocative book reveals it as a modern construct that does not reflect the social and cultural histories of East Asia before the nineteenth century

California Grocers Advocate ,1912 War and Occupation in China Charles Bright,Joseph W. Ho,2017-10-23 A fresh eyewitness account of the Japanese invasion of mid China in 1937 1938 these letters by an American missionary in Hangzhou provide a vividly detailed first hand account of the spread of war from Shanghai across the Yangtze valley and the subsequent ordeals of military occupation seen against the better known backdrop of the Nanjing Massacre one man's embedded experience in one major Chinese city of one chaotic year of war Already 25 years in Republican China and fluent in the language when the Japanese arrived the author was well placed as both an observer of and participant in harrowing events the provost of the Hangzhou Christian College and responsible for its campus president of the local Red Cross which organized refugee camps and shelter for those displaced by the looting and raping that ensued and chairman of an International Committee which sought to mediate between Japanese and Chinese forces in an effort to limit destruction and then to negotiate with the occupation regime on a day to day basis The letters written twice weekly describe pitched battles and aerial bombing the fearful conditions of civilian refugees the exigencies of the missionary enterprise and the experiences of foreign neutrals in wartime China as well as the practical dilemmas of collaboration that arose under occupation moving about protecting refugees procuring food tending a dairy herd and ministering to embattled congregations The letters are fully annotated to give readers a fuller perspective on places people and events that surround the eyewitness accounts A substantially researched introductory essay provides necessary historical background and situates the author in a longer missionary career that began in 1911 and ended with wartime internment in 1943
