trips offers comprehensive illustration of the microdistilling world Ethnography and Law Eve Darian-Smith, 2017-11-30

Ethnographies of law are historically associated with anthropology and the study of far away places and people In contrast this volume underscores the importance of ethnographic research in analyzing law in all societies particularly complex developed nations By exploring recent ethnographic research by socio legal scholars across a range of disciplines the volume highlights how an ethnographic approach helps in appreciating the realities of legal pluralism the subtle contradictions in any legal system and how legal meaning is constantly reproduced on the ground through the cultural frames and practices of peoples everyday lives Status of Pollinators in North America National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Board on Life Sciences, Committee on the Status of Pollinators in North America, 2007-04-13

Pollinators insects birds bats and other animals that carry pollen from the male to the female parts of flowers for plant reproduction are an essential part of natural and agricultural ecosystems throughout North America For example most fruit vegetable and seed crops and some crops that provide fiber drugs and fuel depend on animals for pollination This report provides evidence for the decline of some pollinator species in North America including America s most important managed pollinator the honey bee as well as some butterflies bats and hummingbirds For most managed and wild pollinator species however population trends have not been assessed because populations have not been monitored over time In addition for wild species with demonstrated declines it is often difficult to determine the causes or consequences of their decline This report outlines priorities for research and monitoring that are needed to improve information on the status of pollinators and establishes a framework for conservation and restoration of pollinator species and communities Andean Cocaine Paul Gootenberg, 2008

Illuminating a hidden and fascinating chapter in the history of globalization Paul Gootenberg chronicles the rise of one of the most spectacular and now illegal Latin American exports cocaine Gootenberg traces cocaine s history from its origins as a Farming and the Fate of Wild Nature Dan Imhoff, Jo Ann Baumgartner, 2006

Farming and the Fate of Wild Nature addresses an urgent and complex issue facing communities and cultures throughout the world the need for heightened land stewardship and conservation in an era of diminishing natural resources Agricultural lands in rural areas are being purchased for development Water scarcities are pitting urban and development expansion against agriculture and conservation needs The farming population is ageing and retiring while those who remain struggle against low commodity prices international competition rising production costs and the threat of disappearing subsidies We are living amidst a major extinction crisis much of it driven by agriculture as well as an increasing shift toward a global urban populace The modern diet driven by a grain fed livestock industry is no longer connected with the ecosystems that support it In international circles experts are arguing that further intensification of agriculture through industrialization and genetic modification will be necessary to both feed an exploding human population and to save what is left of wild biodiversity This book takes up where its predecessor the award winning Farming with the Wild left off Featuring a wide range of in depth essays articles and other materials by such authors as Aldo Leopold Wendell Berry Michael Pollan Fred Kirschenmann and Daniel Imhoff this book persuasively demonstrates that farm and ranch operations which coexist with wild nature are necessary to sustain biodiversity and beauty on the landscape In fact as this invaluable educational resource demonstrates they are essential in the challenge of building sane healthy and hopeful human societies

Darwin's Harvest Timothy J. Motley, Nyree Zerega, Hugh Cross, 2006-01-04

Darwin's Harvest addresses concerns that we are losing the diversity of crop plants that provide food for most of the world With contributions from evolutionary biologists geneticists agronomists molecular biologists and anthropologists this collection discusses how economic development loss of heirloom varieties and wild ancestors and modern agricultural techniques have endangered the genetic diversity needed to keep agricultural crops vital and capable of adaptation Drawing on the most up to date data the contributors review the utilization of molecular techniques to understand crop evolution They explore current research on various crop plants of both temperate and tropical origin including maize sunflower avocado sugarcane and wheat The chapters in Darwin's Harvest also provide solid background for understanding many recent discoveries concerning the origins of crops and the influence of human migration and farming practices on the genetics of our modern foods

Cross-pollinations Gary Paul Nabhan, 2004 A pioneering ethnobotanist Gary Paul Nabhan credits the arts with sparking unlikely scientific breakthroughs and believes that such cross pollination engenders new forms of expression that are essential to discovery In this highly readable book he tells four stories to illustrate this idea In the first coping with color blindness in art class leads to his career as a scientist in the second ancient American Indian songs when translated reveal an understanding of plants and animals that rivals modern research in the third a poem inspires an approach to diabetes using desert plants and in the fourth a coalition of scientists and artists creates the Ironwood Forest National Monument in the Sonoran Desert

Biodiversity, Ecosystems, and Conservation in Northern Mexico Jean-Luc E. Cartron, Gerardo Ceballos, Richard Stephen Felger, 2005-08-25 This book describes the biodiversity and biogeography of northern Mexico documents the biological importance of regional ecosystems and the impacts of human land use on the conservation status of plants and wildlife It should become the standard source document for the conservation status of species and ecosystems in this region which is of unusual biological interest because of its high biodiversity and highly varied landscape and biological zonation
