The Incomplete Child Scot Danforth, 2009 With the passage of Public Law 94 142 in 1975 the learning disability construct gained national legitimacy Feeding that political achievement behind the very idea of a learning disability was the development of a science that blended neurology psychology and education This book tracks the historical creation of the science of learning disabilities beginning with the clinical research with brain injured World War I soldiers conducted by German physician Kurt Goldstein It traces the growth of the two primary research traditions the psycholinguistic theory of Samuel Kirk and the movement education of Newell Kephart exploring how specific scientific orientations theories and practices led to the birth of the learning disability in the United States The Unteachables Keith A. Mayes,2023-01-24 How special education used disability labels to marginalize Black students in public schools The Unteachables examines the overrepresentation of Black students in special education over the course of the twentieth century As African American children integrated predominantly white schools many were disproportionately labeled educable mentally retarded EMR learning disabled LD and emotionally behavioral disordered EBD Keith A Mayes charts the evolution of disability categories and how these labels kept Black learners segregated in American classrooms The civil rights and the educational disability rights movements Mayes shows have both collaborated and worked at cross purposes since the beginning of school desegregation Disability rights advocates built upon the opportunity provided by the civil rights movement to make claims about student invisibility at the level of intellectual and cognitive disabilities Although special education ostensibly included children from all racial groups educational disability rights advocates focused on the needs of white disabled students while school systems used disability discourses to malign and marginalize Black students From the 1940s to the present social science researchers policymakers school administrators and teachers have each contributed to the overrepresentation of Black students in special education Excavating the deep seated racism embedded in both the public school system and public policy The Unteachables explores the discriminatory labeling of Black students and how it indelibly contributed to special education disproportionality to student discipline and push out practices and to the school to prison pipeline effect The Parent Trap Nate G. Hilger,2023-04-04 How parents have been set up to fail and why helping them succeed is the key to achieving a fair and prosperous society Few people realize that raising children is the single largest industry in the United States Yet this vital work receives little political support and its primary workers parents labor in isolation If they ask for help they are made to feel inadequate there is no centralized organization to represent their interests and there is virtually nothing spent on research and development to help them achieve their goals It s almost as if parents are set up to fail and the result is lost opportunities that limit children s success and make us all worse off In The Parent Trap Nate Hilger combines cutting edge social science research revealing historical case studies and on the ground investigation to recast parenting as the hidden crucible of inequality Parents are expected not only to care for their children but to help them develop the skills they will need to thrive in today s socioeconomic reality but most parents including even the most caring parents on the planet are not trained in skill development and lack the resources to get help How do we fix this The solution Hilger argues is to ask less of parents not more America should consider child development a public investment with a monumental payoff We need a program like Medicare call it Familycare to drive this investment To make it happen parents need to organize to wield their political power on behalf of children who will always be the largest bloc of disenfranchised people in this country The Parent Trap exposes the true costs of our society s unrealistic expectations around parenting and lays out a profoundly hopeful blueprint for reform The Least Restrictive Environment Jean B. Crockett, James M. Kauffman, 2013-07-04 The Least Restrictive Environment Its Origins and Interpretations in Special Education examines issues of ethical leadership and clarifies instructional placement decisions that provide a full educational opportunity for students with disabilities

Resources in Education , 1999-10 Special Education International Perspectives Anthony F. Rotatori, Jeffrey P. Bakken, Sandra Burkhardt, Festus E. Obiakor, Umesh Sharma, 2014-07-18 This volume provides an international perspective on special education issues There is limited literature examining issues in special education from an international perspective as such this volume will add considerably to the knowledge base across the globe The Last Silver Bullet? Lewis C. Solmon, 2006-06-01 Originally this book was meant only to recommend a way to pay for placing modern technology into all of our country's public schools As we began to formulate that financing plan however we realized the task was not as straightforward as we had thought We were struck by the vehement opposition to our basic premise the importance of using technology in education voiced by most relevant constituencies educators taxpayers and especially many businesses
