A. Henty,2014-03-01 Now that I have finished the account of the last of the series of unsuccessful attempts which were made to find the will I must hurry over the subsequent events of my life in a much briefer and more concise way It is now nearly six years since Robert Gregory died and I must content myself with a mere sketch of what has taken place in that time for this my history has already spun out to a most unreasonable length many times surpassing the limits I proposed to myself when I first sat down with the intention of writing it But my pen has run on and on as I recalled all the past events of my life and I feel every day when I see the mass of manuscript which has accumulated in my drawer for my desk has long since been too small to contain its growing bulk that the chances that any one will ever take the trouble to read it through are growing fainter and fainter every day However should it be so my task has served its purpose It has by chaining my attention to the period of which I have been writing saved me from many an hour of sorrowful thought and has served as a break to the monotony of many a weary day It has too often served as an excuse for me to seclude myself in my own room when my spirits have felt unequal to take part in the constant flow of tittle tattle and harmless gossip which form the staple of the conversation of those with whom my life is now cast and is likely I hope to remain to the end
