Fitzpatrick, PhD, MBA, RN, FAAN, Nancy Fugate Woods, PhD, RN, FAAN, 2001-05-16 This book demonstrates that nurses have made an important contribution to the advancement and expansion of women's health knowledge. Selecting the health issues of most importance to women, the editors have assembled leading nurse researchers to review, summarize, and critique nursing research within each area. A general overview of the field is also provided. Contributors include Angela McBride, Linda Andrist, Janice Humphreys, and Jacquelyn Campbell. Also contributing are Kathleen MacPherson and Nancy King Reame, nurse members of the original Boston Women's Health Collective, which authors OUR BODIES OURSELVES. Annual Review of Nursing Research, Volume 7, 1989 Joyce J. Fitzpatrick, PhD, MBA, RN, FAAN, Roma Taunton, PhD, Jeanne Benoliel, DNSc, 1989-07-15 Now in its second decade of publication, this landmark series draws together and critically reviews all the existing research in specific areas of nursing practice, nursing care delivery, nursing education, and the professional aspects of nursing. Sleep Research Thomas Roth, Michael H. Chase, Carol O'Connor, 1995 Handbook of Sleep Research, 2019-06-21 Handbook of Sleep Research Volume 30 provides a comprehensive review of the current status of the neuroscience of sleep research. It begins with an overview of the neural, hormonal, and genetic mechanisms of sleep and wake regulation, before outlining the various proposed functions of sleep and the role it plays in plasticity and in learning and memory. Finally, the book discusses disorders of sleep and waking, covering both lifestyle factors that cause disrupted sleep and psychiatric and neurological conditions that contribute to disorders. Emphasizes a comparative and multidisciplinary approach to the topic of sleep. Covers the neurobiology and physiology of sleep stages, mechanisms of waking and dreaming. Discusses in detail the proposed functions of sleep from health and rest to memory consolidation and synaptic plasticity. Examines the current state of research in mammalian and non-mammalian species, ranging from primates to invertebrates. Annual Review of Nursing Research, Volume 5, 1987 Joyce J. Fitzpatrick, PhD, MBA, RN, FAAN, Roma Taunton, PhD, 1987-04-15 Now entering its second decade of publication, this landmark series draws together and critically reviews all the existing research in specific areas of nursing practice, nursing care delivery, nursing education, and the profession of nursing. Annual Review of Nursing Research, Volume 17, 1999 Joyce J. Mishel. Methodological Issues in Consciousness Research, volume II Axel Cleeremans, 2025-04-16 This Research Topic is the second volume of the Research Topic Methodological Issues in

Consciousness Research Please see the first volume here The simplest and perhaps the first notion of consciousness in the West as a sentience or awareness of internal or external existence was introduced in the Seventeenth century by the English physician Robert Fludd though similar and even more refined notions of consciousness were developed centuries before in Indian philosophy and contemplative wisdom traditions Because it permeates human existence in so many different ways the study of consciousness is a profoundly interdisciplinary endeavour and engages disciplines such as philosophy including Eastern philosophy cognitive neuroscience anthropology psychiatry and psychopathology and even physics The study of consciousness may involve domains as diverse as perceptual awareness cognition and metacognition reasoning executive control theory of mind self sleep and dreaming emotional competence and empathy It concerns both healthy e g aging meditation spiritual experiences and pathological conditions e g epilepsy neglect and locked in syndromes minimally conscious states anesthesia and involves considerations operating at different time scales e g evolution development expertise Today however and despite almost thirty years of concerted interdisciplinary efforts the nature and mechanisms of consciousness remain as elusive as ever Theoretically different conceptual frameworks aimed at characterizing both its functional and phenomenal aspects take sometimes radically different assumptions as their starting point but often fail to make sufficiently precise differential predictions to be falsifiable While most recent views generally consider methods investigating human higher order reflective or access consciousness the theoretical and experimental foundations of primary proto consciousness often remain vague and ignore evolutionary considerations Influential distinctions such as the distinction between phenomenal and access consciousness between pre reflective minimal and the reflective narrative self between graded and all or none processing or even between conscious and unconscious processing all remain unsettled or controversial The field is also rife with methodological challenges and controversies some of which remain largely unsolved Questions such as how to best measure awareness or to how establish its absence issues such as what kind of neuroscientific data would convincingly make it possible to isolate the neural correlates of consciousness or what types of confounds contaminate extant findings challenges such as how to imagine crucial experiments that are sufficiently sensitive to falsify some theoretical proposals all need to be addressed in open interdisciplinary dialogue This Frontiers Research Topic is aimed at stimulating discussion about current methodological issues and trends in consciousness research We welcome theoretical and empirical contributions as well as empirical articles from both experts and young scientists who work in the field of consciousness research Submissions of related hypotheses original research articles case reports perspectives reviews opinions and commentaries are welcome We very much hope that this Frontiers Research Topic will contribute to enhancing our characterization and understanding of the methodological and conceptual challenges associated with the study of human consciousness

The Sleep of Others and the Transformations of Sleep Research Kenton Kroger, 2007-01-01 We tend to think of sleep as a private concern a night time retreat from the physical world into the realm of the subconscious Yet sleep also has a public side it has been the focal point of religious ritual philosophic speculation political debate psychological research and more recently neuroscientific investigation and medical practice In this first ever history of sleep research Kenton Kroger draws on a wide range of material to present the story of how an investigative field at one time dominated by the study of dreams slowly morphed into a laboratory based discipline The result of this transformation Kroger argues has changed the very meaning of sleep from its earlier conception to an issue for public health and biomedical intervention Examining a vast historical period of 2500 years Kroger separates the problems associated with the history of dreaming from those associated with sleep itself and charts sleep related diseases such as narcolepsy insomnia and sleep apnea He describes the discovery of rapid eye movement REM during the 1950s and shows how this discovery initiated the creation of dream laboratories that later emerged as centres for sleep research during the 1960s and 1970s Kroger s work is unique in subject and scope and will be enormously useful for both sleep researchers medical historians and anybody who s ever lost a night s sleep
