Teaching History Through Art:

A History of Art Education Arthur D. Efland, 1990 Arthur Efland puts current debate and concerns in a well researched historical perspective He examines the institutional settings of art education throughout Western history the social forces that have shaped it and the evolution and impact of alternate streams of influence on present practice A History of Art Education is the first book to treat the visual arts in relation to developments in general education Particular emphasis is placed on the 19th and 20th centuries and on the social context that has affected our concept of art today This book will be useful as a main text in history of art education courses as a supplemental text in courses in art education methods and history of education and as a valuable resource for students professors and researchers The book should become a standard reference tool for art educators at all levels of the field The Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism Efland has filled a gap in historical research on art education and made an important contribution to scholarship in the field Studies in Art Education

E-teaching History Joanna Wojdon, 2016-02-08 Incorporating Information and Communication Technology tools into the teaching and learning of history has become a common practice worldwide. It is no longer a question of if but of how to introduce it in the classroom in order to make history education more effective and enjoyable. This book gathers the experiences and reflections of researchers from three continents based on their own activities and on empirical studies. The contributions concentrate on videogames related to the past history, e-textbooks and applications for mobile devices with historical content. Some texts deal explicitly with global phenomena such as the Assassin's Creed or Colonization games; some present materials developed for the international market such as a European e-textbook or mobile phone applications while others concentrate on local experiences such as a Chinese e-schoolbag, a Swiss tablet application, Polish and Estonian e-textbooks or English teacher training. The book is a result and a reinforcement of the belief that history educators can benefit from the lessons learnt in other places of the globalising world. Teaching History Through Art Sharon Jeffus, Richard Jeffus, 1995-10-01 This book begins with early cave painting and continues through the Renaissance to Baroque art. Many hands-on projects and time lines are included. Illuminated text, Augusta Prima Porta, book binding, pyramids, etc. are included. Makes a great hands-on supplement to primary text. Project Based Literacy Mark Gura, Rose Reissman, 2015-11-01 Project Based Learning is a term that most educators have heard and probably have heard good things about. Often though they aren't quite sure precisely what its defining characteristics are other than involving students in projects that are supposed to somehow result in their learning things of value. A great many teachers are reluctant to make it part of what they do with their students due to unfounded fears of unrealistic workloads and classroom management issues associated with it. This book should help change that, making the nature of PBL, Project Based Learning, clear and illustrating how it can be a manageable, effective and very enjoyable aspect of instruction. The book will present an exciting alternative approach to literacy instruction that its authors call Project Based Literacy. This will principally be done through the presentation of 20 appealing projects, all of them carefully designed to engage and inspire students, grades 3-8, in literacy activities that are both core to the required curriculum and deeply in synch with the Common

Core Standards in English Language Arts The book will also present support material for this providing sufficient theory instructional and classroom management tips and technology and other How To information to ensure that rank and file classroom teachers can adopt adapt and enjoyably and successfully implement the projects and maximize learning in relation to the Common Core Standards for ELA
