Teaching Decision Making Instructional Practices Successful Teacher:

Teaching as Decision Making Marvin Pasch,1991 Teachers' Decision Making in EFL Classroom Zhang

Youwen,2017-07-17 Master s Thesis from the year 2017 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies language English abstract This research attempts to make its contribution to the growing sociolinguistic literature on classroom foreign second language learning and teaching It reports a comparative ethnographic inquiry into the similarities and differences of decision making and decision making process employed by two categories of teachers when approaching planning and instruction in the language classrooms in Chinese EFL teaching context And the thought provoking reasons for these similarities and differences have also been explored through the analysis of a range of broad research questions i e first how do two sets of teachers approach instructional decisions in the similar settings second can we have access to the similarities and differences between their instructional decisions third what factors might affect their pedagogical decisions and fourth are their instructional decisions consistent with their theoretical ideas Two categories of teachers consist of five Chinese TEL and five western teachers respectively who work in two similar teaching institutions in China The selected basic data gathered through a sequence of survey observations and particular information elicitation techniques consist of the running accounts of observation lesson plans and over fifty hours of audio recording of class sessions and interviews Through analysis of selected lesson excerpts and teachers comments on these data we identify similarities and differences in the classroom interpretation of the tasks and participation structures that these teachers adopted in their instruction and the underlying reasons behind them with reference to beliefs context prior experiences and culture The most general conclusion is that whether they emphasize accuracy or fluency and whether they prefer student centered instruction or teacher centered they tend to capitalize on these theories eclectically though they do differ in the extent to which they stress one focus or another Therefore much of a teacher s decision on planning and instruction resides in the way he she interprets the teaching setting and acts on the information from the ongoing classroom interactions In the last two chapters of this book the subject of teacher s decision making is explored from the perspective of soft power and critical discourse analysis so that teachers decision making research can be considered more deeply in the aspect of cognitive discourse and linguistic philosophy and skills essential to every teacher's repertoire. The text provides information about how to be an effective classroom teacher. It has been carefully designed to maximize instructional flexibility and to model established principles of instruction as well as to expand the pedagogical teaching knowledge of teachers and their instructional repertoires. Effective Instructional Strategies can be used as a core text for primary middle secondary or K-12 general methods courses or for use in service seminars and workshops with a practical application focus. It also makes an ideal reference text for individuals wanting an update and/or refresher prior to taking state or national competency exams.

Instructional Process and Concepts in Theory and Practice Celal Akdeniz, 2016-11-22 This book offers an accessible practical and engaging guide that provides sample instructional activities supported by theoretical background information with a focus on the nature of the instructional process in relation to several variables. It approaches instructional models, strategies, methods, techniques, tactics, and planning from a new perspective and shares effective tips to help readers better understand the instructional process and its theoretical elements. The book addresses the following questions: What is the nature of the instructional process? What are the classifications of contemporary models and strategies developed within the instructional process? Which groups yield the most effective methods and techniques and how can they best be practically implemented? What are the instructional tactics teachers need to take into consideration in which groups are they collected and which tips can help us employ each tactic? Additionally, readers can adapt the book's ready-to-use sample activities to their own educational settings. Overall, this book offers an enlightening discussion on contemporary practices related to the teaching process, a broad and holistic theoretical framework, and an ideal reference source for all students and scholars who are interested in the educational sciences.

Successful Teacher Education: Partnerships, Reflective Practice and the Place of Technology Mellita Jones, Josephine Ryan, 2014-09-11 This volume presents distinctive innovative models of teacher education from Australia, discusses their successful elements, and considers possibilities for successful teacher education in the twenty-first century. Each model is couched within the international teacher education concerns of the theory-practice nexus, school-university partnerships, reflective practice, and the role of technology. The contributing authors, drawn from different contexts and locations around Australia, each offers research-based perspectives on successful teacher education. Responses to teacher education challenges in rural and regional contexts, metropolitan areas, among low socio-economic populations, and Indigenous communities are considered. Ways in which technology and, in particular, mobile technology can be used to support learning across these diverse contexts are illustrated, as is the role of reflective practice to encourage critical reflection for improving teacher learning. Collectively, the authors present a range of directions that can guide the future of teacher education, both nationally and internationally, demonstrating that context, partnerships, reflection, and technology are critical elements in the provision of successful teacher education.
