The Great Wounded Bird:

The Great Wounded Bird David Westheimer, 2000 Learn that being in combat had its carefree moments that being a prisoner of war behind barbed wire was not always grim that the enemy was not always evil that the camaraderie of shared peril is stronger than blood ties All this without the reader ever having heard a shot fired in anger Jacket The Churchman's Monthly Magazine, 1857

Literary Exorcisms of Stalinism Margaret Ziolkowski, 1998 A study of the cultural implications of portraits of Stalin and his era since his death in 1953 This work explores the cultural implications of prominent images in Russian thought and literature devoted to the Stalin era since the dictator's death in 1953 Author of the works discussed include some of the most important Russian writers of the past four decades Solzhenitsyn Vasilii Grossman Vladimir Voinovich Anatolii Rybackov among others

The Great Wounded Bird David Westheimer, 2000-07 If World War II is ancient history to you The Great Wounded Bird may let you know just what it was like to be in it What it feels like to drop bombs on strangers swim out of a bomber not to really understand war even though you're in one You'll learn how young men in frightening situations do things they never thought they would be obliged to do who come to accept danger and hardship as a normal way of life and accept extraordinary events as something they had signed up to endure without question because millions of young men just like themselves had done so Learn that being in combat had its carefree moments that being a prisoner of war behind barbed wire was not always grim that the enemy was not always evil that the camaraderie of shared peril is stronger than blood ties All this without the reader ever having heard a shot fired in anger Westheimer takes you with him to Brazil across the South Atlantic to the Gold Coast of Africa to Khartoum across the Sahara to Palestine to Haifa Cairo Tobruk Benghazi and Tripoli to Beirut and Damascus and to prison camps in Italy and Germany And in the prison camps you will meet Padre Brach the Catholic chaplain who refused repatriation and Feldwebel Gemnitz the chief German guard at Stalag Luft III who after the war was brought all expenses paid to a reunion of his former charges
