Minimalists such as Philip Davies Thomas Thompson and Niels Peter Lemche challenged the usefulness of the Hebrew Bible as a source for constructing Israel's past. Maximalists like Baruch Halpern and William Dever argued instead that the data from the Hebrew Bible should be trusted until otherwise proven. Others among whom we can name Hans Barstad Rainer Albertz and Lester Grabbe took a third road. The essays in this volume follow that third road by applying insights from the field of philosophy of history. A dozen case studies from David to the earliest Samaritans demonstrate how difficult it is to write a history of ancient Israel without falling in the abyss of an ideology in one direction or another. The matrix designed by Manfred Weippert to look at the past through five windows: landscape, climate, archaeology, epigraphy, and only at the end the Hebrew Bible turned out to be more helpful. The conclusion of this research is that there are some stable pillars in the swamp of the past but it comes with the warning that the space between these pillars is large and cannot easily be filled. The

Biblical Saga of King David John Van Seters, 2009-06-30 The biblical story of King David has been interpreted in many different ways arising from the variety of methods used in and the intended objectives of the studies. Does the narrative contain insight into and information about the early history of the Judean monarchy or is it merely a legendary tale about a distant past? Can we identify the story's literary genre, its sociohistorical setting, and the intention of its author's? Is an appreciation for the wonderful literary qualities of the story compatible with a literary critical investigation of the narrative's compositional and text critical history? Van Seters reviews past scholarship on the David story and in the course of doing so unravels the history of these questions and then presents an extended appraisal of the debate about the social and historical context of the biblical story. From this critical foundation Van Seters proceeds to offering a detailed literary analysis of the story of David from his rise to power under Saul to his ultimate succession by Solomon. The Creation of Woman

Theodor Reik, 2020-04-23 Theodor Reik attempts to unravel the mystery of the Eve myth he begins with the two conflicting versions of the creation of woman in Genesis. In one passage Genesis states that God created man in his own image, male and female created he them, and in a subsequent passage that God made Adam first and then created Eve out of Adam's rib. Various interpretations offered by the rabbis, the poets, theologians, and Biblical scholars are examined and the author shows how the statement that Eve was fashioned from Adam's rib is still unexplained despite the efforts of higher criticism, anthropology, and the comparative science of religion. Dr. Reik offers a unique approach to the problem of the creation of woman, forming his own original and exciting assumptions. Using the findings of archaeology and anthropology as well as psychoanalysis, he explores the dark world of ritual, the tribal mysteries of primitive societies in which boys at puberty were supposed to die and be resurrected before they were permitted to marry. Analytic comparison of the Eve myth with primitive ritual leads to the reconstruction of the primal form of the Biblical story and to the suggestion that it was not concerned with the birth of Eve but with the rebirth of the ancestral Adam. The author also suggests the possibility of a mother goddess in a still earlier phase of the Hebrew religion. The late Theodor Reik is the author of Listening with the Third Ear and The Secret Self.
