The Christian Understanding Of History:

The Christian Understanding of History Eric Charles Rust, 2002 Short description The conception of world history is rooted in Christianity The Christian faith proclaims God's special revelation through His Son as the key to historical meaning How does this Salvation History relate to the complex events of our historical existence The Christian Understanding of History Kenneth Scott Latourette, 1949* History and the Christian Historian Ronald Wells, 1998-09-17 This volume arises out of special concerns of historians who are also Christians What case can be made for connecting historical work and religious convictions What is the relation of faith to history What difference could Christian perspectives make in historical study Thirteen respected scholars including some who have changed the face of history writing in the twentieth century here take up a diversity of subjects in giving a provisional answer to these important questions In exploring foundational issues of perspective and theory engaging discrete themes such as feminism puritanism and missiology and discussing the application of religious insights in teaching history this excellent collection of essays forthrightly addresses the epistemological crisis brought on by the postmodern critique of truth and demonstrates the positive implications of a Christian perspective for the study of history and historiography Christian History and Interpretation William Reuben Farmer, Charles Francis Digby Moule, Richard R. Niebuhr, 1967 The Christian Understanding of Freedom and the History of Freedom in the Modern Era Walter Kasper, 1988 History and Christian Faith Edward W. H. Vick, 2003 A basic Christian claim is that God is active in human history to accomplish his purpose which he will do in the end This book considers some of the implications of this far reaching claim Christian faith is bound up with our personal history but beyond that stretches far into the past Faith is not identical with historical knowledge for example with knowledge of the facts about Jesus facts which must be established historically That involves using the historian's methods of investigation What does God reveals himself in history mean Christians claim to find an ultimate meaning in history But how can that be How is it possible to find an overall meaning in history theistic or otherwise Since Christians appeal to the New Testament in making the claim that God revealed himself in Jesus we must go beyond that book to the Christian community which existed before there was a New Testament and out of whose midst its writings came To understand those books we must interpret So where do our principles of interpretation come from and how valid are they This is the question of tradition This small book is an introduction to these interesting topics Hopefully it will help to clarify important issues and lead the reader to investigate such central matters further God, History, and Historians C. T. McIntire, 1977 Twenty leaders of contemporary Christian thought probe basic issues of theology social change and historiography An Introduction to the History of Christianity George Herring, 2006-08-01 Examines the interaction between Christianity and the secular world covering four major periods in Christian history The Imperial Church 300 500 the Medieval Church 1050 1250 the Reformation Church 1450 1650 and the Modern Church 1800 2000 Reformed Evangelicalism and the Search for a Usable Past Ian Hugh Clary, 2020-09-07

The question of how theology shapes a Christian historian's reading of the past has been debated thoroughly in various academic periodicals. Should historians recognise the role of providence in their accounts of past events? Should they sympathise with their subject's theology? Can objectivity be lost due to theological bias? And last but not least, is there a compromise of faith if one writes natural instead of supernatural history? Such questions are important for understanding the historian's profession. Arnold Dallimore, who trained and specialised in pastoral ministry in Canada, wrote an influential biography of the revivalist George Whitefield as well as others on Charles and Susanna Wesley, Edward Irving, and Charles Spurgeon. How did his Reformed theological perspective impact his historiography? How does his work fit into larger historiographical debates concerning the nature of Christian history? While other books look at Christian historiography using abstract and methodological approaches, this book examines the subject precisely by looking at the life and work of an individual historian. It does so by placing Dallimore in the context of being a minister in twentieth-century Canada as well as his role in the development of Reformed Theology in the Anglosphere. It also examines the quality of his various biographies, focusing on key issues such as the nature of religious revival, the problem of Christianity and slavery, and the question of charismatic religious experience. His study concludes by examining the relationship between the discipline and profession of church history and asking what is required for one to be considered a church historian.
