Flesh and Stone: The Body and the City in Western Civilization Richard Sennett, 1996-03-17 This vivid history of the city in Western civilization tells the story of urban life through bodily experience Flesh and Stone is the story of the deepest parts of life how women and men moved in public and private spaces what they saw and heard the smells that assailed them where they ate how they dressed the mores of bathing and of making love all in the architecture of stone and space from ancient Athens to modern New York Early in Flesh and Stone Richard Sennett probes the ways in which the ancient Athenians experienced nakedness and the relation of nakedness to the shape of the ancient city its troubled politics and the inequalities between men and women The story then moves to Rome in the time of the Emperor Hadrian exploring Roman beliefs in the geometrical perfection of the body The second part of the book examines how Christian beliefs about the body related to the Christian city the Venetian ghetto cloisters and markets in Paris The final part of Flesh and Stone deals with what happened to urban space as modern scientific understanding of the body cut free from pagan and Christian beliefs Flesh and Stone makes sense of our constantly evolving urban living spaces helping us to build a common home for the increased diversity of bodies that make up the modern city

Re-Imagining the Other M. Eid, K. Karim, 2014-07-24 The twenty first century exploded into the global imagination with unforgettable scenes of death and destruction An apocalyptic clash of civilizations seemed to be waged between two old foes the West and Islam However the decade long and ruinous war on terror has prompted re assessments of the militaristic approach to Western Muslim relations A growing number of academics policymakers religious leaders journalists and activists view the struggles as resulting from a clash of ignorance Re imagining the Other examines the ways in which knowledge is manipulated by dominant Western and Muslim discourses Authors from several disciplines study how the two societies have constructed images of each other in historical and contemporary times The complexities and subtleties of their mutually productive relationship are overshadowed by portrayals of unrelenting clash thus serving as encouragement for the promotion of war and terrorism The book proposes specific approaches to re imagine the Other in order to mitigate Western Muslim conflict
